CLARK 455; THE VOTE

MIETH BALLOT--STANCH-

ELD ATTACKS BRYAN

OF THE BALLOTS TAKEN TODAY

National convention adjourned at 11 o'clock Saturday night twenty-six ballots had been taken but with Wilson gaining on each ballot. The result of the voting today was:

	Clark	Wilson	Underwood	Foss	Marshall	Harmon	Bryan	Kern
1st	469	406½	112	38	30	29	1	1
2nd	468½	437½	112½	38	29	29	1	1
3rd	468½	436	112	38	29	29	1	1
4th	455	460	121½	30	19

BALTIMORE, Md., July 1.—The convention hall was again the center of illumination from an early hour today. Crowds began to besiege the entrances by 9 o'clock, and by ten the galleries were half filled and a sprinkling of delegates had taken their places on the floor.

A cool breeze promised relief from the exhausting heat of previous sessions. Danger interest was everywhere manifested in the struggle about to be entered, and speculation was abundant as to whether the deadlock would be broken.

The prevailing sentiment from the floor was that nothing definite had been accomplished to bring the deadlock to a close and that, if anything, the lines were quite as tight, if not tighter, than before, although all recognized that the convention had been reprieved with so many sudden and unsatisfactory changes that a break or a coup might come at any time.

By 10:45 the galleries were filled to the limits, with waiting lines still forming in the corridors. Scattered delegates were unplaced, but few had come in a body and those around which the stormy forecast, Missouri, New Jersey and New York, were among the last arrivals.

Many of the state delegations held informal caucuses in their sections of the convention hall, where the events since Saturday were discussed. The controversy between Speaker Clark and Mr. Bryan was the uppermost subject of the conversation. In all corners of the hall men engaged in heated debate.

The Illinois delegation of fifty-eight, headed by Roger C. Sullivan, was one of the last to reach the hall, having been in formal caucus since 10 o'clock. Illinois stood unanimously and firmly for Clark throughout the 26 ballots.

Following the seventh ballot there had been continual rumors of a break in Illinois and today this was revived, though no announcement of any contemplated break was made before the 27th roll call began.

"We are prepared to stay until the snow flies," said Congressman Pence, a Champ Clark delegate from the District of Columbia upon arrival at the hall.

"Whatever happens, we can hold more than the 35 necessary to prevent a nomination and after the treatment awarded Mr. Clark in refusing him the honor after he had received a majority, we will stick to the death."

When Chairman James appeared on the platform at 11 o'clock there were many vacant seats on the floor. There was no band today, its contract having expired. The bandstand was occupied by a body of Baltimore beaters.

A few minutes after 11 Chairman James called the convention to order, and the Rev. S. Carroll Coall of the First M. E. church of Baltimore offered prayer.

Cheers for Bryan

William J. Bryan appeared on the floor just at the conclusion of the prayer and a cheer swept the convention hall as he strode up the aisle and took his seat with the Nebraska delegation. The commotion was smilingly recognized. He made a motion that a committee be appointed to secure the validation of return trip railroad tickets held by delegates.

The motion was adopted and the committee appointed. The roll call was then begun.

Galleries Noisy

One of the galleries became noisy and Chairman James ordered the police to clear any section of the gallery that renewed the disturbance.

When New York was called a poll of the delegation, the first since the building began, was demanded.

Abraham L. Elkins of the 11th New York district was the first New Yorker to vote for Wilson and a round of cheers greeted him. William G. McAdoo was the second.

Stanchfield Attacks Bryan

When the name of John R. Stanchfield was reached he took the platform to explain his vote.

"I come from a state whose electoral vote is vital to democratic success," began Stanchfield. "We represent ten million people."

Stanchfield then started to review the history of New York politics and the delegates showed signs of becoming impatient.

"Is there any limit to the gentleman's time?" asked a Michigan delegate.

"New York has a right to be heard on the floor of this convention," retorted Stanchfield. "The integrity of every delegate from New York has been impugned and insulted."

Stanchfield reviewed the New York delegation, declaring that it included jurists, lawyers and business men of known standing.

"It is by common consent the most representative delegation that ever came to a national convention from New York."

"If there be the 'puppets of war' that Mr. Bryan refers to, we say to that money-grabbing, office-seeking, publicity-hunting Marplot of Nebraska."

Stanchfield could not conclude the sentence. It was drowned in a burst of cheers.

While the speaker delivered this attack Bryan sat quietly in his seat. He watched Stanchfield closely and occasionally smiled.

New York's Vote Needed

"I desire to say again: the vote of New York is vital to success," continued Mr. Stanchfield. "And no man can go forth from this convention stigmatized and branded with the mark of Bryanism upon him and come within half a million votes of success."

"When Mr. Bryan makes the statement that these delegates from New York are under the influence of Morgan and Ryan and Belmont, the plutocrats of this convention, he omits one name. Outside of the three he has named, the richest and most powerful plutocrat on the floor is the gentleman from Nebraska himself."

"If the New York delegation is to be prevented from participating then any man who for pay has been writing from the floor of the republican convention in favor of Bryan's partner and ally, Theodore Roosevelt, ought also to be excluded."

"Col. Bryan never intended to support the candidate of this convention unless that candidate was Mr. Bryan himself," said Stanchfield. "We have heard for months that Mr. Bryan was combatting Underwood here and Wilson there and Clark here and Harmon there, working all the time in his own selfish interest to produce a deadlock here."

Votes for Wilson

In conclusion Stanchfield threw the convention into disorder with the declaration, "I cast my vote for Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey."

As the roll continued it became apparent that Clark would again, get New York's 30 votes under the unit rule. It was generally believed that the vote had been challenged and the roll demanded for the sole purpose of enabling Stanchfield to deliver his attack on Bryan.

Under the unit rule New York's 30 went to Clark. Illinois, which had been passed in the roll call, cast 35 votes for Clark. The Illinois delegates fled into their seats while the poll of the New York delegation was in progress. The caucus resulted in a determination to stand by Clark, for whom the 35 votes had been cast since the beginning of the balloting.

The 27th Ballot

The result of the 27th ballot was: Clark 469; Wilson 406½; Underwood 112; Foss 38; Marshall 30; Harmon 29; Bryan 1; absent ½.

This gave Clark a gain of 5½; Wilson a loss of 1 and Underwood a loss of ½ as compared with the 26th ballot.

A resolution introduced by J. B. Knox, deploring the bitterness of the convention and calling for a united front in order to facilitate the work of the convention, was referred to the resolutions committee without reading.

Indiana Breaks

The 28th roll call went as far as Indiana before any material shift was made. Then the convention went wild as Senator Shively announced:

"Kern 1; Wilson 29."

The Indiana vote had, heretofore gone solid to Marshall.

After conferring with a number of friends Mr. Bryan said it was unlikely that he would reply to the speech of Mr. Stanchfield.

It was reported that Senator Rayner of Maryland might seek the opportunity to defend the progressives.

Pennsylvania added one to her usual vote of 71 for Wilson.

The 28th Ballot

The result of the 28th ballot was: Clark 469½; Wilson 407½; Underwood 112½; Harmon 29; Foss 38; Kern 1; Bryan 1; absent ½. Marshall was eliminated, 23 of his 30 votes in Indiana going to Wilson, who gained 31 on the ballot. Clark lost ½.

A dispute in the Iowa delegation showed that the state stood Clark 14½; Wilson 11½, but under the unit rule the entire vote of the state went to Clark.

Another wrangle followed when Kansas was called.

The chairman of the delegation asked that the state be passed. A dozen delegates yelled: "We want to vote now. Two-thirds of this delegation are for Wilson and we want the vote cast that way."

The delegation was ordered polled. The vote was: Wilson 13; Clark 6, absent 1, and the vote of Kansas, 29 in all, went over into the Wilson column. When James ruled that the vote should go to Wilson, Theodore A. Bell secured the floor after a disorderly dispute, to argue against changing the vote of Kansas for Wilson.

Kansas for Wilson

The delegates were impatient and Bell was frequently interrupted. He argued that the Kansas delegation could not shift to Wilson until two-thirds of the delegation voted for Wilson. He asserted 13 was not two-thirds and contended that 20 votes should go to Clark.

Bell had trouble getting a hearing, and his argument was punctuated by jeers and cat calls.

"Sing it," shouted a delegate as he headed the conclusion.

A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, the Wilson leader, answered Bell. He said with only 19 Kansas delegates, on the floor thirteen constituted two-thirds of the delegation and their votes should control the state's votes.

Ben Galt of the Wilson men in the Kansas delegation, asserted that 14 of the delegates from that state had voted yesterday to desert Clark.

Chairman James ruled that the two-thirds of the delegation meant two-thirds of the delegates present and gave the 20 votes to Wilson.

The result of the 29th ballot was: Clark 469½; Wilson 408; Underwood 112; Foss 38; Harmon 29; Kern 1.

This gave Clark a loss of ½ a vote; Wilson a loss of 1½; Bryan lost his single vote and Kern gained 3.

Wilson Takes Lead

The 30th ballot was monotonous until Ohio was reached. Then ten of Harmon's 29 went to Underwood. Wilson's 19 remained intact.

Vermont gave up Foss on this ballot and that state's eight votes went to Wilson.

The result of the 30th ballot put Wilson in the lead.

The vote of Iowa, which had been passed, gave Wilson 14; Clark 12. Up to that time the entire vote of 26 had gone to Clark. When the vote was announced a rollcall of the delegation was demanded. Iowa's vote as announced gave Wilson the lead of the ballot with 469 votes. It gave Clark 455. Cheers greeted each Wilson vote as it was announced during the rollcall.

AMERICAN ATHLETES REACH SWEDEN

They Were Given Great Reception

STOCKHOLM, July 1.—An immense crowd of those identified with the Olympic games, including the principal members of the Swedish committee and the entire track team, greeted the steamer Finland when she docked near the heart of the Scandinavian metropolis at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. During the half hour in which the steamer was tying up Swedes sang Swedish and American songs and the ship's band played national airs.

ALD. BARRETT AND LAWYER DONAHUE

CLASHED AGAIN TODAY AT

STILES HEARING

The hearing on the charges of Ald. Barrett against City Treasurer Stiles was resumed before the municipal council this afternoon and there was some loud noise in the aldermanic chamber. The hearing has been going on now for some time and very little has been shown on either side. The charges are based, in great measure, on the report of the expert accountant, who examined the financial books of the city and charges, a bit sensational, were made. The expert accountant, Mr. George M. Rex, said he had been informed that changes had been made on the books in the treasurer's office since the expert accountant's report was made, and while Mr. Rex attempted to prove that the changes had been made after his report had been published, Assistant City Treasurer Barrett insisted that the changes in question had been made before the publication of Mr. Rex's report and in the presence and by the request of Mr. Rex's assistants. There were some hot exchanges during the hearing.

Mayor O'Donnell called to order at 10:25. Several minor petitions having to do with street improvements, pole locations, etc., were properly referred.

The communication from Albert S. Howard, attorney, for C. Arthur Abbott, relative to the election of Daniel E. Hogan as assessor of taxes was read by the mayor. All correspondence connected with the matter has already appeared in The Sun.

On the motion of Ald. Barrett the communication was received but no action was taken.

An order transferring $796.41 from an appropriation known as the Race street fire house to an appropriation called buildings, salary and labor, was read by the mayor and on motion of Ald. Barrett it was referred to the city solicitor for his opinion as to the legality of it.

The Bay State Street Railway Co.'s petition for relocation of tracks in Middlesex street was read and a hearing voted for July 22, at 2 p. m.

A communication from the superior court relative to Lowell's part of the expense in connection with the abolition of the grade crossings in School, Plain and Walker streets was read. Lowell's share is about $20,000 and on motion of Alderman Barrett the matter was laid on the table.

Clancy Complaints

The mayor then read a communication from John B. Clancy and it made a great hit with the audience. The communication:

His Honor, the mayor, and Council of the City of Lowell:—

I, the undersigned, petition your honorable body for redress for the following three charges, namely:—

First, Why did Andrew G. Stiles, city treasurer and collector of taxes, attach my horse and team for a two dollar poll tax he claimed I owed nine or ten years previous. William Boyle, constable, the seventeenth day of February, 1912, and non-suited the same, consequently entitling me to costs.

Second, By honest endeavor for two years past and by permit I was building a wagon shed and store house opposite 33 and 40 Floyd street when Mr. Connor, inspector of public buildings, on the eighteenth day of April, 1912, verbally and by written notice declared the job officially shut down, and again on the twentieth day of said April, by force and arms, police officer, etc., renewed the attack to shut down said building.

Third, On Sunday, June 16th, 1912, three police officers, namely, Sergeant Duran, Frank Fox and William Grady, invaded the privacy and sanctity of my other houses of mine, 23 Floyd street and wagon shed and store houses opposite 23 and 40 Floyd street. Said officers did not have any provocation and do not explain themselves satisfactorily to me. Let it be further understood that I was not at home at the time of said invasion.

With all sincerity of purpose and a speedy adjustment of my grievances, I play your honorable body, John B. Clancy, 25 Floyd St.

"I refuse to be brow beaten by you, Mr. Donahue," said Alderman Barrett.

"You are not honest in your statements. You do not know what you are talking about," said Mr. Donahue.

"Your presence in the case does not jar me a particle and no words of yours will sway me from my honest intention," said Alderman Barrett.

Says Books Were Changed

Mr. Rex said he had received information that the books had been changed. "I said I would take back the charge if I couldn't prove it by examining the books, and I say now that the books have been changed."

Mr. Rex pointed out a change from $100 to $72. He knew, he said, that the original amount was $100 and it appears in the books as $72.

Mr. Donahue's office explained the change in the amount in question. He said that a page with 35 poll taxes was footed $100 instead of $72.

He said that one of Mr. Rex's men discovered the wrong footing, and he went with him to the assessors' office and had the figures changed. He said, however, that the figures in question were not used by the expert in his balance. Mr. Farrell said it was an error in the assessors' office, but as a matter of fact, Mr. Farrell said, there was no need of any footings on the bottom of pages where poll taxes are entered because the totals are never used. Mr. Farrell said the figures were not changed since Mr. Rex's report was made, but would have been made if it had not been made before.

Some Sharp Words

A rapid fire of questions and answers ensued between Ald. Barrett and Asst. City Treas. Farrell. Mr. Barrett contending that all errors discovered in the treasurer's office should be communicated to the commissioner of finance, and Mr. Farrell contending that he ought not to be expected to run to the commissioner with every little happening in the treasurer's office.

Mr. Donahue said that Mr. Rex's statement was for the purpose of covering up.

Mr. Hennessey said that Mr. Rex had not made any direct charge, but that he had been told that changes had been made.

Mayor O'Donnell did not think that Mr. Rex should make so alarming a statement unless he was able to prove it. "No such statement," said the mayor, "should be made from hearsay. It is not fair."

Then there ensued a mild wrangle between Mr. Donahue and Ald. Barrett in which court judges and common, every-day aldermen were referred to in the same breath.

Mr. Donahue suggested, that in a court of justice Mr. Rex would be made to more fully explain and to give the name of his informant.

"This is not a court trial," said Ald. Barrett.

"If it were things would be different," said Mr. Donahue.

"Court judges are not immaculate," said Ald. Barrett.

"And nobody has ever been silly enough to think that aldermen were immaculate," said Mr. Donahue.

Mr. Rex was shown a book from the treasurer's office and was asked to say if certain figures had been changed.

Mr. Rex refused.

Mr. Rex refused to state whether or not, by observation, he thought certain figures had been changed.

The item in question showed only a difference of 40 cents, so that financially it did not amount to very much.

As to Responsibility

Mr. Donahue read from section 3, chapter 2, charter and ordinances 1891, defining the duties and responsibility of the auditor, but the section read has since been sidetracked by section ten, chapter 415, charter amendments, acts of 1895.

Alderman Barrett and Mr. Donahue had a hot run in. It came on the matter of loans. Mr. Barrett contending that before the loans were gone into the loans of every other city in the commonwealth should be known, as to amount of interest, etc., and Alderman Barrett claimed that it was up to Mr. Donahue to procure and submit the information.

Mr. Donahue told Alderman Barrett that he did not have the courage to enter into the matter of the investigation without the assistance of Mr. Rex.

"You are not the man to judge as to my courage," said Alderman Barrett.

MINAHAN WAS DROWNED IN THE MERRIMACK RIVER

He Was Trying to Reach Shore
After the Boat Had Gone Down

Patrick Minahan, aged 23 years, of half-acre Tringshore, Saturday night 22 Linden street, lost his life in the at 6:30 o'clock while he and another Merrimack river about a mile and a half were attempting to cross the river in a leaky boat.

The Butler Vets were to have had an outing yesterday and President James H. Walker, together with Minahan and Daniel Hickey, went up the river Saturday afternoon in Mr. Walker's motor boat to make arrangements for the affair. The place chosen for the outing was directly opposite the Knights of Columbus camp. After everything had been left in readiness, President Walker started to return to Lowell, but Minahan and Hickey decided that they would remain and do some fishing.

President Walker took the men to the opposite side of the river to dig some bait and then left them.

Ready to return to the opposite side of the river the pair found a water-logged boat near the wharf of the ferry club. Although they knew that the boat was leaking, they felt that they could cross the river in safety.

Shortly after starting Hickey asked Minahan if he could swim, and the latter, a strapping big fellow, six feet, two inches in height, laughingly remarked that he couldn't swim a stroke.

About half way across Minahan noticed that the boat was leaking badly and called Hickey's attention to it. They set to the oars harder than ever, but a few moments later Minahan noticed that the boat was filling with great rapidity and remarked, "We are going, sure." Both men got up and Minahan turned to Hickey and smilingly saying "Be good," dove into the water and started out for shore with big, strong strokes. Hardly a second afterward the boat sank and Hickey was in the water, too, swimming for shore, but with a slower and shorter stroke than his companion.

Both men were then about 200 yards from shore. Minahan soon placed quite a distance between himself and Hickey because of his longer and more powerful stroke, but when about 100 feet from shore he saw Hickey look to Hickey, turned over on his side and sank. He did not resurface, and when Hickey reached the spot where Minahan sank, he dove several times in an effort to get him, but to no avail and, nearly exhausted, he set out for shore and managed to reach it after a hard fight.

Yesterday morning about 7:30 o'clock Undertakers Charles H. Molloy & Sons started to drag the body of the body, but up to the time of going to press it had not been located.

Minahan was employed by the city at the city ledge in Dracut. He lived with his sister, Mrs. Catherine Clark of 22 Linden street, and was unmarried. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Clark of this city and Mrs. Kirby of Ireland, and one brother, Michael, also of Ireland.

He was a member of the C. Y. M. I., the Celtic Associates, the Butler Vets, and at one time of the A. O. H.

On account of the death on Saturday of Peter A. Mackenah, a member of the Butler Vets, and of Minahan's death a few hours later, the outing was abandoned, at least for the present.

THE THORNDIKE CAFE

The Thorndike Cafe is located at the corner of Thorndike and Middlesex streets just inside of the entrance to the North station yard, and is in the form of a lunch car, and is one of the most beautiful and attractive of any in our city. It is elaborately painted outside, and the name Thorndike Cafe is on the sides. It is 22 feet long, 10 feet wide and 10 feet high. It is beautifully finished in quartered oak, and has all the latest improved utensils for carrying on a restaurant business, even to arrangement for cooking. It has been designed expressly for this lunch car, where at all times of day and night one of the best and neatest lunches will be served.

A competent chef has been engaged to prepare the food, and none but the best materials will be used at this cafe, and moderate prices will prevail. The fixtures are all silver and nickel plate and everything is scrupulously neat and clean and beautiful in appearance. The floor has been laid by the American Safety Tread Co. and is thoroughly clean and up-to-date. It has running water and sewer connections, and electric light and gas for heating purposes as well as cooking. This car is nothing short of an ornament to that section of the city and is most conveniently located for the traveling public and is a place where passengers can slip in should they have but a very limited time to be served and will fill a long felt want of people traveling in the cars.

Everything is as near perfect as money and skill can provide. Saturday evening the car was formally opened for business and certainly they did an immense business and many compliments were paid the management for their enterprise and good fortune in being able to select such a splendid place in which to do business.

LAWN PARTY

HELD ON GROUNDS OF ST. ANNE'S MISSION, BILLERICA

A delightful lawn party was given Saturday afternoon and evening on the grounds of St. Anne's mission, Billerica, under the auspices of the Clover club of the mission. There was a large attendance and the affair proved to be a success in every particular.

The grounds were beautifully and artistically decorated and looked charming, especially at night when scores of Japanese lanterns illuminated the grounds.

The exercises opened at four o'clock in the afternoon with a fine program of juvenile events. Refreshments were served and music was furnished by a hurdy gurdy.

The success of the affair was due to the untiring efforts of the following efficient committee:

General manager, Miss Mary H. Brown; refreshment committee, Misses Elizabeth Wain, Annie Welfedon, Ella Whitehead, Eva Crumble, Sarah Stott, Marion Williams, May Butcher, Clara Wain, Mary Barrington, Jessie Fairbrother, Mary Walker, Mildred Garner, Ada Garner; decoration committee, Harold Tracy, Fred Mills, Elmer Stevenson, Thomas Brown.

LIVELY BLAZE

BROKE OUT IN PINE WOODS NEAR MOUNTAIN ROCK

But for the prompt and efficient work of Supt. John Coady of Lakeview park, and Charles Mooney of the local division of the Bay State Street Railway company some valuable woodland in the vicinity of Mountain Rock grove would have been destroyed.

Some person carelessly dropped a lighted match or cigar stub in the pine needles and in a very short time there was a lively blaze in progress. There was a brisk wind blowing and the flames spread in all directions. The two men worked hard, however, and after a stiff battle succeeded in extinguishing the fire.

BILLERICA

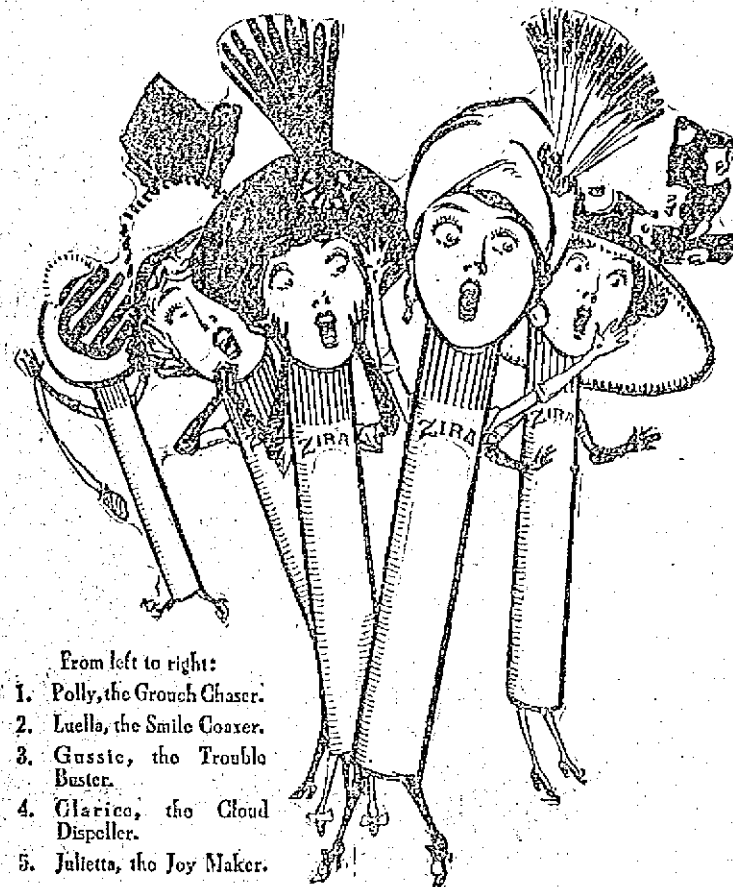

The fire departments of both Billerica and North Billerica were kept on the jump yesterday responding to alarms for fires in different parts of the town.

One of the most threatening fires was that which broke out in brush in what is known as the Pinhurst district. The blaze had made considerable headway before it was discovered and the firemen had a hard fight in trying to keep the flames from spreading.

The Centre company responded to this alarm and the firemen were obliged to stay there a good part of the afternoon before it was finally extinguished. Another brush fire occurred in North Billerica yesterday on land near St. Andrew's church. There was practically no damage in this blaze.

Early last evening the North Billerica fire company was called out again, this time to a fire in one of the freight cars standing on a side track of the Boston & Maine railroad. The car was loaded with wood waste and flannel, and the blaze was put out in short order by the firemen. The damage will, it is estimated, amount to about $300, of which $200 will be in the car and the remainder to its contents.

200 KILLED BY TORNADO---PROPERTY LOSS IS $10,000,000---MANY PERSONS KILLED

REGINA, Sask., July 1.—The havoc wrought by the tornado which struck this city early last night is appalling. Citizens aided the police throughout the night in rescuing the injured and recovering bodies of the dead from the ruins. It will be late today before the exact number of dead is known, but it is thought it will reach 200. The property loss may reach $100,000,000. The storm lasted only a short time; in fact it was over so quickly that the people hardly had time to realize what had taken place and some of the escapes from death were miraculous. Buildings only a block from the path of the storm were injured only slightly. The first intimation that those outside of the storm zone had of the disaster was when three girls who had escaped from the wrecked telephone exchange belonging to the government telephone lines appeared at a newspaper office and told their experiences. The young women had slid from the second floor of the telephone building to the basement, carried down by a 15-ton switchboard. Soon hundreds of willing hands began the work of rescue, which will not be finished before tonight. The electric light plant, supplying the city was put out of commission, when the storm struck, adding confusion and retarding the work. Many freaks of the wind are shown. The roof of a factory building was carried three blocks and crashed through a handsome new residence. Four livery stables were demolished and every horse in each of them killed. The escape of 75 girls, working in the telephone exchange was probably the most miraculous of any. The building was demolished. It was at first believed that a large number had been killed. Superintendent Sutherland wired the general office at Winnipeg early in the night that probably 20 girls had been killed and forty injured. This proved to be untrue. Just how many were injured is not known, but none was killed or fatally injured. On Lorn street, one of the principal residence thoroughfares, scarcely a building is standing and the debris of the Canadian railway yards is a flat expanse of ruined shops and trains. Not a whole car remains in the yard. Some of them were picked up by the wind and carried for several blocks. The whole north side of the city is practically wiped out. No one knows how many are dead on that side. A canoe was carried from Wascana lake to Victoria Park, a distance of three quarters of a mile, and dropped there. Sailing vessels were picked out of the water and strewn over the southern portion of the city. The cupola of the Baptist church was dropped in the middle of the street three blocks away. Late in the evening clerks were working in the ruins of the local branch of the Royal Bank settling things to rights when some men, seeing the door unlocked walked in and demanded the money there to their credit. One of the largest grain elevators facing the railway yards was picked up bodily and carried a distance of 50 feet from its foundation. There were many pathetic incidents during the night of searching for dead and wounded, when the workers discovered some member of their own family among the debris. Many families were separated at the time of the storm. The day had been extremely hot and many had sought comfort in the parks. A large number of people were out on the waters of Wascana lake when the storm broke and five are known to have been drowned. The work of relief for those made so suddenly destitute, has been started. Every home in the city that is standing has been thrown open to the homeless. Early last evening Mayor McArthur, the civic authorities, and a number of prominent citizens formed a relief organization. Two temporary hospitals were opened, one in Immigration Hall and one in a city block, each being supplied with doctors and nurses who have volunteered their services. Premier Scott, early conferred with Mayor McArthur and stated that the provincial government would at once place $25,000 at the disposal of the city authorities and that more would be forthcoming if necessary. Steps have been taken to recall the local militia, now in camp at Camp Sewell. Meanwhile the police are guarding the ruined strip to prevent pillaging of the damaged property.

BIG BATTLE EXPECTED IN MEXICO TODAY

Government Troops Advance on the Rebel Force—Gen. Huerta
Near Bachimba

AT THE REBEL FRONT, Bachimba, Mexico, July 1.—In three columns the government troops advanced toward the rebel front today by way of Conchelo eight miles south of here. During the day the two armies were expected to engage in the first big battle since the rebels were defeated at Reilano nearly four weeks ago. It is estimated that 10,000 men will be engaged on both sides.

The federal artillery with a regiment of cavalry advanced on the east side of the railroad, while further east about 1200 cavalry and infantry were marching early today.

To the west 1000 federal cavalry and light mountain artillery were being moved.

It appeared quite likely that the federal advance would stop at Del Fronte, a short distance south and west of Bachimba mountain pass, where it was anticipated that the government would begin shelling the rebel positions with heavy artillery while attacking columns of cavalry moved up under the cannon fire.

HUERTA NEAR BACHIMBA
AT THE FEDERAL HEADQUARTERS, Conchelo, Mexico, July 1.—Discovering scores of rebel mines, the entire federal division under Gen. Huerta advanced to within a few miles of Bachimba early today prepared to give the rebels battle later in the day.

LAKEVIEW PARK
Another exhibition of Italian fireworks will be given at Lakeview Park next Tuesday evening. There will be an entire change of program with a number of special features which will be unusually brilliant and colorful.

The spectacular feature of the exhibit will be an effect especially designed for the occasion. It is called the "Spouting Geysers of the Yellowstone" and will reproduce these wonders of Nature that have made the great national park famous, except that they will appear in more marvelous colorings.

Sunday afternoon and evening there will be band concerts. Starting Sunday evening, July 7th, there will be sacred concerts at the theatre. "A Banquet of Keys," a lively musical comedy, will be presented in the theatre every afternoon and evening of next week.

FLIGHT TO BOSTON LIGHT
BOSTON, Mass., July 1.—A flight to Boston Light by Miss Harriet Quibby was the feature attraction arranged for the second day of the annual Boston Aero meet at Squantum today. Miss Quibby planned to make with a passenger the same flight that Grace White successfully completed 2 years ago for $10,000 prize and is the first woman to attempt the Boston light flight.

MAZDAZNAH CONVENTION WILL COME TO CLOSE TONIGHT

DR. GEORGE W. HILTON

High Priestess Hilton Discussed the Question of Woman Suffrage

A woman's conference is now in session at the Mazdaznan temple, Spentia Maria, on Columbus avenue. The temple is small and is beautifully decorated. The services are held on the second floor, where there is a seating capacity for about seventy-five people.

Dr. Hilton, oftentimes called the "Little Christ," officiated today, assisted by High Priestess Hilton. Dr. Hilton wore a beautiful red surplice. Mrs. Hilton wearing a purple gown. The little temple was filled to its capacity.

the greater part of the congregation consisting of women.

Ottoman Zar-Adusht Hanish, who has become quite notorious off late through newspaper articles, is a small man with unusually impressive mannerisms and a very fluent speaker with a large vocabulary, having a peculiar but pleasing manner in pronouncing his words. He has complete control over his audience who listen to his ravings as though spellbound.

The services commenced this morning by the singing of a hymn in some dead language, followed by an address by Dr. Hanish. Mrs. Hilton said that there were many present from other cities and countries and that they were all here to discuss the question of woman suffrage. "Every woman should have the right to use the ballot box," she said. "As the Mazdaznans were to give the word of the god Mazda to the world at large they would undoubtedly be able to settle the question which at present is arousing so much among both sexes."

MRS. MARIA RUTH ELIZABETH

Dr. Hanish followed Mrs. Hilton with an address, saying that the image of God is in every man and woman, that they were not going to believe in the absurd ideas of tendencies and disorders inherited from their ancestors, and that each one would and could be just as he desired, and that they have and were going to exempt themselves from all use of the knife and herbal medicines. The congregation then sang "Yea, I hold the Creator," while Dr. Hanish held a mirror in front of their faces. Breathing exercises followed, the members of the cult first taking a deep breath, then repeating words in some unintelligible tongue, stopping at a certain time and again commencing.

The convention will close tonight. The word Mazdaznan comes from the Zend word, meaning master thought, which embraces the system of thought, word and deed, and deals with life from birth until death. One of the principal teachings of Mazda is the physical care of the body. The Mazdaznans claim that members of their sect are the physical superiors of any outsiders, and that they live a much longer life. All Mazdaznans are strict vegetarians as it is against their doctrine to kill any living object, as they contain the soul of a human being.

Professor Richard E. Hanish, father of Dr. Ottoman Zar-Adusht Hanish, "Little Father" of Mazdaznan, who is a music teacher at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, tells the following story relative to himself and family.

"Our home in Europe was in Breslau. There were three boys—Otto, Zacharias (Ottoman Zar-Adusht) was the youngest. You know him. Richard was the second. He is now a Baptist minister near St. Louis.

"In Breslau I had a good government position. I held the office of interpreter and was associated with people of rank. My salary was good and I was able to give my boys a good education. The oldest of the boys now holds a position in Breslau, similar to the one his father held when he was a child.

"As a child Otto was the favorite son. When a baby he was the pride of the family in which we lived. His blue eyes and brown curls made him beloved by every one. Two days after he was born there were a number of women who wanted to adopt him as their son. Every one loved him.

"At school he was a very apt pupil. He was far beyond his class in the study of languages and was able to

HELD FOR GRAND JURY FOR STEALING AN AUTO

Woman Charged With Polygamy and Held for the Grand Jury in $400—Other Cases

A boy named Adams, who resides in Portland, Me., was arrested early yesterday morning by Inspector Walsh and Sergt. Ryan on a complaint charging him with the larceny of an automobile valued at $750, the property of Richard A. O'Connell, local manager of the Hallett & Davis Piano Co., in Merrimack street.

Mr. O'Connell left his runabout in John street, near his place of business, Saturday night, and when he closed the store and went into the street to locate the car he found that it was missing.

He reported the matter to the police, and as a result of what they learned a visit was made to the house where the youth was stopping and it is alleged that the number plates which had been taken off the machine were found in the house.

The auto was located in a yard on Christian hill.

In police court this morning Lawyer James J. Kerwin appeared for the defendant and after waiting the reading of the complaint entered a plea of not guilty. Probable cause was found and the defendant was held under $500 for his appearance before the superior court.

Serious Charge Preferred

Peter Ducas who was charged with drunkenness and being armed with a dangerous weapon, a knife, pleaded not guilty. Patrolman George Abbott testified that he arrested the man in Merrimack street Saturday afternoon and Lieut. Martin Maher corroborated the testimony. Patrolman Abbott produced a long bladed knife which he said was found on the defendant's person.

The defendant said he purchased the knife at a pawn shop and intended to use it at his work in the card room of one of the local mills. He denied that he intended to use the knife on any of his fellow-countrymen and also that he was drunk.

On cross-examination he said that he had had trouble with a man in Market street Saturday afternoon and immediately afterwards purchased the knife.

The court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15.

Drunken Offenders

George H. Douglas, a young man, was charged with drunkenness. He was under an appeal of sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory and the court sentenced him to three months in jail. For the second time within as many weeks he entered an appeal.

read French, Latin and considerable English before he was fifteen.

Comes to America

"When Otto was fifteen I had a chance to come to America. I had become acquainted with a Professor Rauschenbusch, head of the German-American Academy at Rochester (N. Y.) Theological Seminary. I disliked to give up my position in Breslau and would not have come to America had it not been for my sons, who urged me.

"Otto was especially anxious to come and it was greatly to please him and to heed the will of his mother, who constantly favored him, that I yielded. My oldest son remained in Breslau. Otto was then fifteen years old.

"At Rochester everything went well and I taught in the academy, where Richard also went to school. Otto did not care to continue his school and he then learned the printing trade. Evenings, however, he continued his studies and was constantly with his books. Both my wife and I feared that he would injure his health by so much study.

"In church—we were Baptists as in

Edward J. Martel and John J. Horne were given suspended sentences to the state farm and placed in the custody of the probation officer for terms of six months each. Patrick Knight, who was on probation, had the suspension of his former sentence revoked and was sentenced to the state farm. He appealed.

Annie McCabe, who was on parole from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

Three Sunday drunks were ordered to pay a fine of $5 each. William F. Nicholson, John Wingrass and John J. Sullivan were fined $2 each, and five first offenders were each ordered to pay a fine of $2.

Stole Flowers

Helen and Effie Alexopoulos, two girls, were charged with the larceny of flowers from a garden. They were found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $3 each.

Serious Charge Preferred

Annie Markovitch, who appeared in court last week, was brought to trial before Judge Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging her with polygamy. Through her counsel she entered a plea of not guilty but at the conclusion of the case the court found probable cause of guilt and held the defendant under $400 bonds for her appearance before the grand jury.

The first witness for the government was Anthony Maximova, who testified that he resides at 7 Spring street and knew the defendant in the old country 15 years ago. He said that they kept company over there and were married in Warsaw, Russia, eight years ago. They then came to this country, settling in Baltimore, Md., and immediately afterwards came to this city and lived here for about nine or ten months.

William P. McCarthy, assistant city clerk at city hall, testified to a record of a certificate of marriage being issued to Alexander Savenski and the defendant on March 25, 1905.

Alexander Savenski, who it is alleged is the defendant's second husband, said he was married to the defendant on March 25, 1905, at the police station.

Cross examined witness said that Maximova, who it is alleged is the first husband, met him and said that the defendant was not his wife and that he (witness) could live with her. Shortly after this the alleged first husband left Lowell and did not reappear here until several weeks ago when he had the woman placed under arrest.

The court after considering the testimony in the case found probable cause of guilt and ordered the defendant to be held for the grand jury under $400 bonds. She received bail.

Europe—Otto was most active of the two boys. He was the most devout and religious minded boy I ever saw. He taught a class in Sunday school, sang in the choir and was affiliated with every church activity he could enter.

"Then one day came the first disappointment for us in the life of Otto. When he was twenty-one he told us one day that he was going to leave town. West, he said, he was going. Where he knew not. He had a little money that he had earned from the printing trade and was able to leave.

"He went despite my pleas with him to stay and the tears of his mother. She has never been really happy since that day she kissed him good-by.

"And that was in reality the last we had of our son. True, we saw him since then several times and received a few letters at odd intervals, but he has never been a son to us since."

The father went on to relate the times when he received a letter or postcard from his son. He mentioned the time he was invited to visit his son at the Lake Park avenue temple in 1894. During the interim he had no notion as to what his son was doing in the "west." It was this period the "Sun Priest" is said to have passed in Utah.

"We were living in Milwaukee when we received the letter to come to see Otto. Of course we went although it required some hard saving of money to gather together enough money for the train fare. I had given up my position at Rochester nine years before and was teaching music in Milwaukee. For a while we had lived at Elkhart, Lake, Wis.

Assounded by Sun Palace

"We were astonished to find the paternal home where Otto lived. He did not meet us at the train, but we found the place and our son. But even the meeting again after the long separation seemed too plain for the elegance and right furnished place there. Everything was too nice and we did not feel at home. And worst of all Otto seemed so different that we did not enjoy ourselves. He had so little time for his father and mother.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

As an added attraction at the Lakeview dance hall this week, Tom Pool, who secured such a grand success as drummer at Keith's theatre during the winter season, will play xylophone and bell solos during the dancing. Mr. Pool is recognized as the best man in the city on the drums and he has a grand list of selections that he will play during the week. John Y. Myers, the well known soloist, will also be on hand every evening and will sing the accompaniment of Kittredge's orchestra of eight pieces. The floor is in great condition, and the hall has been beautified with numerous decorations. Sessions are held at the hall every afternoon and evening, and owing to its close proximity to the water it is the coolest spot in the vicinity and every detail for the comfort of those who patronized the resort is attended to in grand style. The fountain at the entrance to the hall has been completely remodeled and all kinds of temperance drinks are served by a competent corps of soda dispensers.

An Editorial from the Detroit Times June 12, 1912

IF THE PRICE OF COFFEE

WOULD DOUBLE AGAIN

ALL THE BETTER!

The price of coffee has doubled in three or four years. And this, despite production has doubled in that time. The reason for the present high price of coffee was sought and it has been found that the market supply has been artificially restricted. The Brazilian government is in the operation and participates in the profits to the extent of an export duty of three cents a pound.

And American bankers are financing the scheme. Diabolical plot? Ontrageous conspiracy? Perhaps!

But we did not take our pen in hand to condemn anybody concerned except COFFEE DRINKERS—to condemn them and, also, to congratulate them, both upon the present increased price and the probability that it will go higher.

It isn't exactly inspiring to see American capital finding its way to a foreign country to be used there to the end of exploiting American family pocketbooks.

However, this is not the saddest fact involved, to our way of thinking.

It is most regrettable that the consumption of coffee in this country has increased to a point to warrant manipulation of the supply.

We don't like to look upon coffee as becoming a NECESSITY to the American people, and view with alarm the activities of capital suggestions that it is becoming a necessity.

Coffee isn't good for you.

Too much of it is positively harmful.

If the present price, doubled in four years, would double again, it would be the best thing that ever happened to the excessive coffee drinker.

He wouldn't drink as much of it.

Better yet, maybe he wouldn't drink it at all.

Just possibly you have us put down as being a bit nery in this—coming in and sitting down beside you before the coffee pot and telling you to keep hands off.

Nevertheless, we mean well.

We are talking for your good.

You like coffee, probably, and perhaps you think it is none of our business if you drink it or if you drink all you want of it.

Babies want those pink pills that look like candy and cry if don't let them have them.

And many grown people know as little as babies about the care of their bodies.

There are intemperate coffee drinkers the same as there are intemperate drinkers of alcoholic beverages.

One cup of coffee isn't going to prove fatal, nor two cups of coffee.

Two cups may upset your entire system, make you uneasy, restless and peevish and unfit you for best results for a day, but it will wear off after awhile the same as a whisky drink wears off.

But bring to us a person who drinks two and three cups of coffee regularly for breakfast, or a person who drinks coffee three times a day, and we will show you a person with a bad-acting heart, a sluggish liver, a disordered stomach and a shattered nervous system.

If you don't believe us, ask your doctor.

He will tell you that coffee contains caffeine, which he gives in the smallest kind of doses for a heart stimulant.

He will tell you further that too much caffeine or too much coffee will give you a palpitating heart.

Then if you are satisfied to run the risk of having that kind of a heart, keep right on drinking all the coffee you want, and excuse us for interfering. (Detroit Times, June 12, 1912)

Instant Postum

This new food drink

CONTAINS NO CAFFEINE—
COSTS LESS THAN COFFEE—
REQUIRES NO BOILING—AND
TASTES BETTER THAN MOST COFFEE

Stir a spoonful of Instant Postum in a cup of hot water, add cream and sugar to taste, and you at once have a delicious drink that's wholesome, pure, and good for old and young.

A 100-cup tin of Instant Postum (no boiling) costs 50 cts. at grocers, 1-2 c. per cup. Smaller tins at 30 cts.

Standard Postum, large pkg. (the kind which must be boiled 15 min.) 25 cts.

Both produce the same result; one by boiling and the other instantly.

Coffee averages about double that cost.

Housewives appreciate Instant Postum because it saves time, work and fuss in the preparation of a meal; and for its intrinsic merit.

Ask your grocer about it. If he doesn't carry a supply, send us your address with a 2-cent stamp and your grocer's name and we will send you a free sample of this newest food drink.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The theatregoing public of Lowell generally, will be pleased to know that the offering by The Harvard Stock company for the first three days of the week, commencing today, will be one of the most popular present-day plays in which the leading actors and actresses of the country have appeared, "The Rosary." The piece tells the story of a young couple who have lived very happily together until some unknown influence brings about their separation. Father Kelly, the parish priest, a character loved by everyone, realizes that the young couple fail to understand the real cause of the trouble and he sets about to bring them together. He succeeds and the closing scene finds man and wife happily united. The characters of the priest, one of the principal in the cast, is so drawn that the question of sectarianism is not in any way involved. Critics all over the country have pronounced this play one of the very best of modern day creation, and when interpreted by such artists as Henry Grady, Charles Stevens, Miss Valaire and others, should please immensely. In connection with this offering there will be a new series of photo-plays and illustrated songs that will contribute in making the entire bill one of unusual merit.

For the last three days of the week the offering by The Harvard Stock company will be "St. Elmo," a play that has won favor in many cities during several seasons past. It has many interesting situations and tells a pretty story. As presented by this clever company of entertainers, it should meet with the general approval of all. New photo-plays and songs will be given during the last three days.

Patrons should remember that the temperature at this theatre is kept at comfortable figures at all times. It's the "cool spot" of the city.

THE KASINO

"Where are you going my pretty maid?" "Going to the Kasino, won't you come along?" she said. And, of course, he accepted the invitation. They danced in the afternoon and danced at night, and when the last dream waltz had been played by the big orchestra, they voted it the best time of the season. Will they come back? For an answer to the question, drop around this afternoon or evening. The Kasino is the coolest place in Lowell. By the way, the management has made elaborate plans for July 1. Beginning Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Kasino orchestra will play continuously until Thursday night at 12 o'clock. Twenty picked men have been secured, and they will be divided into two orchestras, so that when one is tired, the other will take its place.

REP. UNDERWOOD

DOES NOT WANT TO BE VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Representative Underwood put a damper upon the efforts to boom him for the vice presidential nomination last night by declaring that he was in the fight for first place on the democratic ticket to stay. "I would rather be representative from the ninth district of Alabama than vice-president of the United States," he said. Mr. Underwood admitted that he had been approached on this subject by the Clark managers.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD
IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

In Honor of the Feast of St. Peter and St. Paul—First Friday
Services This Week

The feast of St. Peter and St. Paul was observed in all the Catholic churches yesterday, with services appropriate to the occasion. It was also announced at all the masses in the local churches that on next Sunday the annual collection for the negro and Indian missions will be taken up.

Friday of this week is the first Friday of the month and devotions in honor of the day will be held in the churches.

At St. Peter's church yesterday the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul was observed, and as the patronal feast of the church, it was commemorated with services of unusual splendor and impressiveness. Solemn high mass was sung at 11 o'clock. Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, Rev. John F. Burns, deacon, Mr. John J. Starr, a seminarian at Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., sub-deacon, and Jas. Markham, master of ceremonies. Rev. Daniel Kohler, pastor, occupied a seat in the sanctuary. The musical program was of rare excellence, the solos being taken by Miss Gertrude E. Kelleher, Miss Vera Moody, and Messrs. James E. Donnelly, John H. McMahon, John F. Roane and Frank J. Kane. The sermon was an eloquent discourse on the significance of the day, and it was preached by Rev. Fr. Burns. The reverend gentleman recounted the important incidents in the life of St. Peter, his loyalty and his eminent position as the vicar of Christ on earth. He felt the time most opportune to pledge anew the loyalty of the faithful to the see of Peter and he was sure that in return God would shower his choicest blessings on all who were faithful.

Next Friday, the first Friday of the month, the Holy Hour services will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening with a special musical program. Confessions will be heard on Thursday evening.

Wednesday a high mass of requiem will be sung for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Michael Roman, and the speakers at all the masses at the church yesterday suggested that as many of the parishioners as can conveniently attend should do so.

The children's mass at the Immaculate Conception church, which heretofore was celebrated at 9 o'clock, was yesterday sung at 10 o'clock in the basement of the church, and the latter time will remain until further orders.

The monthly church calendar, and the speakers at all the masses at the church yesterday suggested that as many of the parishioners as can conveniently attend should do so. A meeting of the general committee in charge of the annual parish outing and picnic to be held at the Genoa club grounds on July 27 will be held in the school hall this evening and it is expected that all members and parishioners as well will be present. The sports and executive committees will hold special meetings tonight and the results of the past week will be announced. The report of the soliciting committee, which is one of great satisfaction, will be submitted tonight. The members of the latter committee request the many difficulties and obstacles the clergymen had to contend with, but as the results were gratifying in the end the work proved most pleasing. The story was most instructive and was exceptionally well written.

Howard's Liliac Cream will take the place of toilet water, being delightfully perfumed with the odor of fresh liliac. Its principal use is for sunburn, chafing, windburn or other roughness of the skin. May be used on the most delicate skin. Be sure to take a bottle to the beach. Use it morning and night (and between will do no harm), and you'll be pleasantly surprised. It makes the skin velvety and flexible, preventing wrinkles. A quarter the bottle. At A. G. Pollard Co.'s, Bailey & Co.'s, Young's hair dressing parlor, and the maker's, Howard, the druggist, 127 Central street.

THE MIDWAY

TO BE ESTABLISHED ON SOUTH COMMON AGAIN THIS YEAR

The great and glorious Fourth is but a few days away and already there has been considerable activity on the South common where the midway is held annually. The time for making applications for permits to locate on the common opened this morning at 9 o'clock, and Clerk John J. Flaherty of the license commission was a very busy man during the morning and afternoon hours, and undoubtedly he will be rushed harder tomorrow and the next day.

If the number of applications made this morning can be taken as a criterion, there will be an increased number of fairs on the midway this year. While there are scores of local people who will have stands on the common there are the regular all-the-year-around fairs who will put in an appearance.

The license fees range from $1 to $15. The $1 fee is for cane and knife ringing booths, striking machines, etc., $5 for merry-go-rounds and $15 for the tent shows.

MAN ARRESTED

IS WANTED BY THE LAWRENCE POLICE

Charles Pokonals, who is wanted by the Lawrence police, was arrested in this city about one o'clock yesterday morning by Patrolmen Joseph A. Clark and Lindsey E. Ingalls on Bridge street on a warrant charging him with assault with a knife. When brought to the police station it was found that he had a dangerous looking knife on his person, the blade being about 11 inches long and blood stained. Yesterday an officer came from Lawrence and took the man back to the down river city.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to the neighbors and friends who in the hour of our bereavement offered us their sympathy and sent beautiful floral offerings. We deeply appreciate the aid and kindly efforts of the employees of the Hamilton power plant to lighten our burden of sorrow. We will ever hold them, one and all, in loving and grateful remembrance.
Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch.

LOWELL CAPTURED BOTH GAMES

Defeated Lynn 4 to 2 and 4 to 3 Saturday—Team
improving

LYNN, July 1.—Lowell took both games in the double-header with Lynn at Ocean park Saturday afternoon, the first by the score of 4 to 2 and the second by the score of 4 to 3. Both games were very interesting and feature plays were executed by members of both teams.

Wolfgang opposed Walter in the first game, and the former had it on the latter red-top. Wolff pitched a great game, and in the early stages the Lynn boys were unable to do much with his shoots. As the game advanced his delivery was found more frequently, but he kept the hits well scattered.

Halstein played in the second game, covering first base for eight innings and going over to second when McGamwell batted for Miller in the ninth, Eddie going to his own position.

But De Groff did some hitting in the first game, getting four hits out of four times at bat. Clemens was also there with the timely singles. Loneragan batted well and played his usual star fielding game.

The first run for Lowell came in the fourth session, when De Groff doubled, taking second on McGamwell's single and scoring when Magee got a nice hit. Lowell's next run came when Joe Monahan showed the Lynn men that he is still there, in the fifth inning, and he got a good hit. He took second on a sacrifice and came home on a drive by Clemens.

In the sixth De Groff tripped and counted on a single by McGamwell. The next Lowell run resulted when Loneragan singled and went to second on a sacrifice by Monahan and trotted home on a fine drive by Clemens. Lynn's run came in the third, and after that, though the home players were on the bags, they never had a chance.

SECOND GAME

The second game went seven innings by agreement and all the scoring was done in the first inning. For Lowell, Clemens went to first on an error; Miller walked. De Groff came to bat, and after making a quartet of bingles in the first inning he was not there but Halstein was equal to the occasion and scored Clem on a fine single. Magee hit safely and Miller counted and Halstein went to third. Bouttes scored Halstein on a sacrifice by and Magee came in when Loneragan singled.

Lynn got three on hits by Orcutt.

THE WASHINGTON TEAM IS VERY WELL MANAGED

"GERMAN" SCHAEFER

Clark Griffith is Making a Great Showing With His Players This Season

Washington is the sensation of the followers, who always have been American league this season. Do you remember to look deep in the second understand it? It is so, you have some division for the percentage of the thing on the great majority of baseball Washingtonians. And the good folks to Washington are astonished, simply wondering if it can be true. They fear it's a dream.

Clark Griffith has put new life into the senatorial aggregation. He has put his own things into the club and has instilled a new brand of ginger in his team, new at least for Washington. In other years the Washington team has gone on the field merely for the formality of playing the scheduled game, apparently convinced that it had only an outside chance to win. But Griffith's 1912 club is a cocky one that goes into the combat with the belief that a victory will result or the other fellows will have some battle on their hands. It is team spirit, the Washington baseball critics say.

Griffith has been fortunate in his pitching. Walter Johnson never has shown to better advantage than he has this season, and Groom has pitched great ball in the games he has entered.

"Chick" Gandil, whom Griffith recently purchased from Montreal, has made good. He has been putting up a grand game at the initial sack and hitting the ball hard. Clyde Milan, the Senators' star outfielder, is also playing a sensational fielding game, running the bases well and walloping the ball hard.

MILAN

Washington's Star Outfielder

Foster at third is the sensation of the team and works in great style with George McBride, the shortstop and captain of the club. Foster's stick work also has done much in keeping the Washington team high in the race, and "German" Schaefer looks better than ever before in his long and eventful baseball career. Schaefer has been hitting well, his long wallop being a potent factor in the Washington offense.

In looking at the high standing of Griffith's men and considering the lowly position Washington usually has held, the question naturally arises: Will the club blow? Has the team the class to keep up the present pace?

Washington is admiring—and wondering.

It is rather strange that the average patron of baseball lacks the confidence in the manager just as soon as things are not going right. Let a few games be lost and every blue out of ten so called fans will be there with a suggestion for changing the lineup of the team.

It stands to reason that the individual most vitally interested in a team's success is its manager, and when that man has had 25 years' experience in baseball it would be wise to display confidence in his judgment.

But it is perhaps the reason for the popularity of the sport that the spectators consider themselves capable of doing the managing.

It is a privilege which goes with every admission ticket. Incidentally, it is but natural that the so-called fan should have no trouble convincing himself of the logic of his argument when the team is not doing what it should, but it also stands to reason that the only way success can be attained is to have one man use his judgment.

The advisability of changing players from one position to another has frequently been questioned, and yet some of the stars in certain positions have been switched there from others. Take, for instance, Eddie Foster of the Washingtons. He was not figured as being capable of playing anything but short field, the position in which he started out in professional baseball, yet Foster developed into a star at third in a very few weeks. Jimmy Collins ranked high among the very best of the third basemen, was an outfielder and was shifted to third by an accident.

Herman Schaefer furnishes another instance where a change has helped a player.

Schaefer made himself a left handed batter at a time when he seemed destined to return to the minors, and he is today a better ball-player than he ever was.

It pays to be a star athlete in more than one branch of professional sport, as is quite fully exemplified in the case of "Newsy" Lalande, the lacrosse and hockey star. Playing lacrosse last summer for Vancouver, "Newsy" earned $340, and to this was added $1600 in the hockey season recently closed at the coast, a mere trifle of $5240 for the year.

MATRIMONIAL

As some errors were made in the account of the marriage of Thomas Burke of this city and Miss Viola Jones of Brooklyn on June 19, we would state that the ceremony was performed in St. Paul's Catholic church, corner of 25th st. and 3th ave., New York city. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Fr. Powers and the two witnesses were the only attendants.

CASHIN-GAUTHIER

The marriage of Mr. Charles Luther Co.

Cashin and Miss Irene Eugenia Gauthier was solemnized Saturday night at 6.30 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom, 156 Wilder street, by Rev. Geo. F. Kennett. The young couple were attended by Miss Rosaline Cashin and Mr. William Bannister, the latter of Boston.

The ushers were members of the bridegroom's Sunday school class as follows: Herbert Taylor, Irving Snyder, Rothwell Smith, Albert Booth, William Mochrie and a brother of the bride, Charles Gauthier.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to a large number of guests. Among those present from out-of-town were: Mr. E. L. Corey and Miss Ellen A. Corey of Manchester, N. H.; A. R. Blake of Boston, R. W. Handy of Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Mill of New York, Maurice Corey of New York and William Bannister of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Cashin were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, among them being one from the members of the Co. K. Sixth regiment, of which Mr. Cashin is a member. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Cashin left on a short wedding trip, after which they will reside at 156 Wilder street.

DONOVAN-HIGGINS

Mr. Michael J. Donovan of Roxbury, Mass., a clerk in the Boston postoffice, and Miss Catherine T. Higgins of 133 Pleasant street were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., at the Immaculate Conception rectory. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Higgins, and Mr. James Donovan, brother of the groom, was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride, after which they took the 7.30 train on a trip to Newport, New York and Washington. They will be at home at 44 Dennis street, Roxbury, Mass., after Sept. 1.

BAKER'S WAGON

PROVED TO BE A BARROOM ON WHEELS

BOSTON, July 1.—A dilapidated baker's wagon, which the Somerville police term a "barroom on wheels," was seized by Inspector Michael T. Kennedy and Patrolman Dwyer of the Somerville police force on Knapp street, that city, yesterday noon, and the driver, Louis Rubin, a grocer, at 481 Main street, Charlestown, arrested on a charge of bringing liquor into Somerville, a no-license city, with intent to sell.

The wagon contained bread, buns, pies and other pastry supplies, which were laying on shelves inside the wagon. Inspector Kennedy was in the "Duck Village" section of the city and became suspicious of the actions of the driver and followed the wagon.

On Knapp street Inspector Kennedy stopped the outfit and searched the interior of the wagon. He found a dozen bottles of beer in a four bag, a bottle of whiskey and several empty whiskey and beer bottles.

The police claim that Rubin was selling the liquor at cut rates, six cents a glass. Rubin, who is 28 years of age, told the police that he had been coming to Somerville for four years delivering his pastry supplies.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The new workmen's compensation act, which takes effect July 1, 1912, will affect every employer of labor, whether you are carrying liability insurance or not. We are fully prepared to assume your vastly increased liability which this act creates by placing your risk in any of the large companies which we represent, companies of long experience in the liability business.

CUT THIS OUT Use Me In the Future

Employer must notify employe in one of the following ways: "In person" by enclosing in pay envelope copy of form used by Industrial Accident Board as Rule No. 1; by posting near the entrance and in every room where employes work copy of Rule No. 1, which we will be pleased to furnish at your request.

Penalty—Section 18 of Chapter 751, part III, Act 1911, in substance.

EMPLOYER

Must notify State Industrial Accident Board within 48 hours after accident on blanks to be procured from the board for that purpose upon the termination of the disability of the injured employe, or if such disability extends beyond a period of sixty days the employer shall make a supplemental report on blanks to be procured from the board for that purpose.

Any employer who refuses or neglects to make the report required by this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars for each offence.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 1.—Mrs. Thaw, who testified that her husband shall remain in the court room and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the former club in Manhattan asylum for the criminal, on the witness stand her husband was girl who went on the witness stand in the proceedings. She testified in the proceedings, scarcely glanced at her, and there were at the trial of Harry K. Thaw and only before Justice Keogh here, saying that she signs of recognition between the two. Thaw Thaw was on the witness stand two days, having with William White which probably saved her from the gallows and that she feared he would carry out his threat if freed, state.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

The workmen's compensation act, fixing compensation for death or injury, takes effect today. This law, it is expected, will work a great change in the method of settling upon the amount of damages in accident cases in factories and other establishments. The law is not compulsory upon either party, but if an employer intends to accept it he must notify his employees and insure with the Massachusetts Employers' Association established under the act or with some liability insurance company. The employees will also have to notify their employers if they intend to accept the provisions of the act, but neither party is compelled to accept it. In case neither accepts the new law, the employee will have a distinct advantage because three of the most important defenses urged by employers in accident cases have been taken away by the legislature. No longer can an employer plead that the accident was the result of neglect on the part of the employee; that it was the result of the act of a fellow-employee; that the employee had assumed all the risk of the employment. With these defenses lacking the employer is not likely to go into court if he has any other reasonable recourse for the settlement of the case.

The new law fixes damages for certain accidents, the nature of the accident and extent of the damage to be fixed by the industrial accident board, which has the power of a court of law in such matters.

Heretofore, the operative injured in a manufacturing establishment was hurried to a hospital and attended by a doctor or surgeon employed by the company. As a rule he was well treated and if the company was liable for damages steps were taken to settle the case and secure his signature for an acquittal before he left the hospital. Where this was not feasible and a suit for damages was brought, the employee had to fight a large corporation which appealed the case from one court to another and if the verdict was heavy, appealed for a new trial and thus kept up a long fight in the courts. In the end if the operative succeeded in getting a substantial verdict, most of it usually went to pay the lawyers who conducted the case and it often happened when there was a verdict of $10,000 that the plaintiff when all expenses had been paid, did not get one-fifth of the amount. Thus, not only the employee, but the company had to stand a great deal of legal expenses and the lawyers finally were the only parties benefited. Under this new law the case will be different. The injured operative must notify the industrial accident board and his employer and in due time the amount of damage will be assessed and paid without any unnecessary delay.

The scale of amounts fixed for death or serious injury may not be as high as would be received in a successful suit for damages in common law, but there is no trail of legal expenses to lessen the amount. Moreover, it comes readily when the money is needed, and is therefore of more use to the injured party. Employees who accept the provisions of this plan receive in case of death or injury certain amounts fixed by specified rules. Medical and hospital service are provided during the first two weeks after the injury; weekly payments for injuries causing illness of more than two weeks; in case of death resulting from injury the dependents of the victim will be paid from $4 to $10 per week for 300 weeks. Those partly dependent get lesser amounts and where there are no dependents only the expense of sickness and funeral are paid up to $200. Certain specified amounts are paid for the loss of one hand, two hands, one eye, two legs, the fracture of a leg or an arm and so on. The law promises a revolution in the mode of settling accident cases and to be advantageous to both parties. The accident suits in court have crowded the dockets in the past and have been the terror of the manufacturing establishments. The Massachusetts law is modeled after that in force in England and Australia. It will overcome a great many evils and protect the employee better than ever before.

Under this new law the manufacturing industries will have to reckon the compensation for injured employees as part of the cost of production. This has been done indirectly in the past, although the estimate made for paying claims was mainly applied to the payment of the legal expenses incurred by fighting the cases in court.

IS THE PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY A FAILURE?

Judging from the convention at Chicago and the deadlock of that at Baltimore, it would appear that the presidential primary has produced a regular horde of evils. It is alleged even that the class of delegates chosen has not been up to the standard of former years. This was particularly noticeable in the republican convention where the old time leaders and their high flown oratory were conspicuously absent.

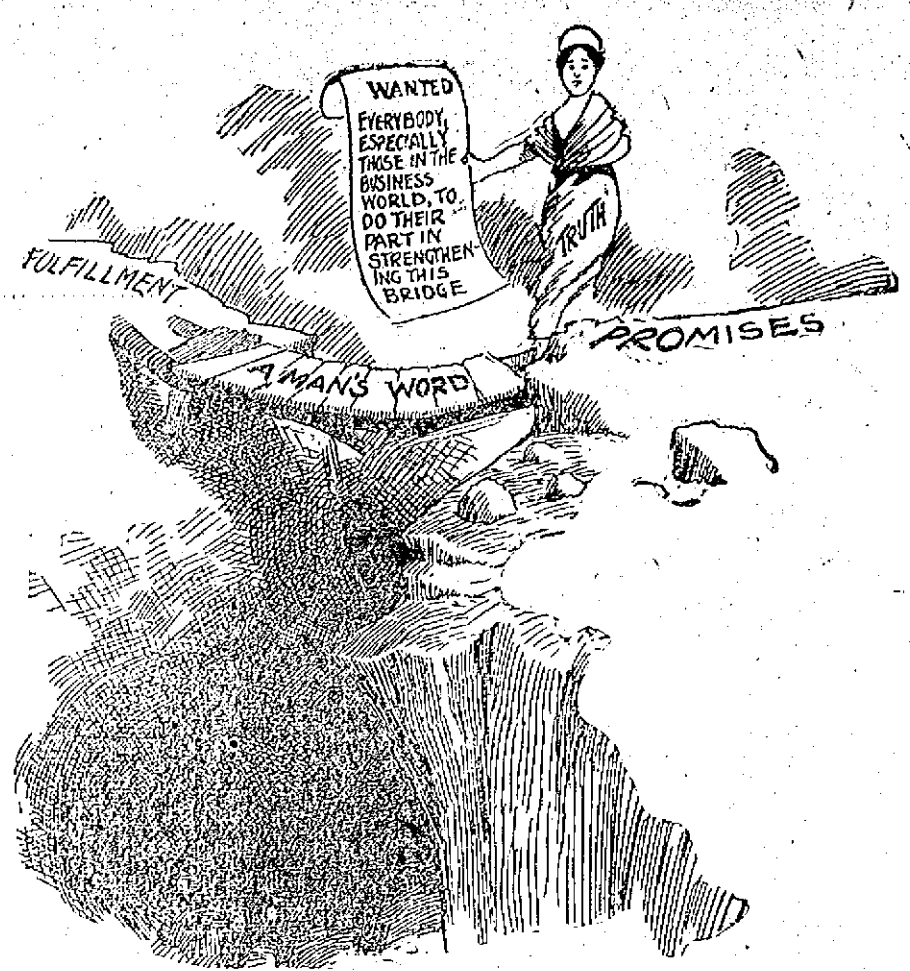

If it appears that the presidential primary is calculated to cause party bolts, deadlocks and political demoralization, something must be done to avert the evil consequences. Still the people will cry for the popular nomination and still the standard of the delegates will become lower and lower, unless the primaries be given the dignity of an election. At present the primary for president is but a show vote as it were, and is not strictly binding upon anybody. It is merely a means of getting a line upon popular sentiment for the guidance of the delegates, but to cling too tenaciously to the preference so expressed may prove fatal to effective party action. Seldom in the history of the democratic party has there been such a long struggle in a nominating convention as at Baltimore.

Never before were the delegates so divided and so bound to candidates. This is the result of instruction from the voters, but in future there should be a provision that the delegates will not be bound to any candidate for more than a reasonable number of ballots, say ten. If a rule to this effect were binding upon all delegates, then they might be able to do business without wasting so much time in fruitless balloting. The majority of the delegates in accordance with the general instructions from the voters stuck to a few leading candidates, Clark, Wilson and Underwood, yet some of the candidates who got but a few votes are just as good as the leaders mentioned.

Governor Fox came into the contest on the thirteenth ballot and would make as good a president as Clark, if not a whole lot better. Wilson was gaining strength at the close of the balloting Saturday night, but neither he nor Clark was able to secure the two-thirds necessary to nominate. The republican convention nominated by a majority which was fortunate for Taft, for if he had to get the two-thirds he could not have secured the nomination.

Bryan is still an obstacle to spontaneous action in the democratic convention. An able man to be sure, but wonderfully reckless in the amount of trouble he brings upon his party. Yet the convention cannot override him without disaster.

The organization of the Roosevelt progressive party does not seem much progress. Roosevelt has been hoping that the change in the government would lead Bryan to the extent of forcing him into a split.

HOW IS YOUR BRIDGE, READER?

SEEN AND HEARD

Don't believe the "know it all" fellow who tells you that the new reservoir now being built on the Centralville hill is not designed to increase the fire pressure, for the new reservoir will increase the pressure and had it been in operation at the fire at the "Friend Bros" bakery there would not have been any cause for complaint as to pressure.

There's a John John Blair in Chicago. John John has a brother John, and old man Blair, in order to distinguish the second John from the first John, made the second John double John. There is more than one double John in Lowell, and perhaps the reason the papers haven't mentioned it is because they thought everybody knew it.

Tell me not in mournful numbers, Life is but an empty dream. If you're crackle-brailed lobster, And top it off with cold ice cream, You will find out in your slumbers, Life is not an empty dream.

He had been to Europe and returned, and he was telling a friend on the car what he had seen, when a man with red eyebrows leaned across the rail and said:

"I beg your pardon, sir, but I should like to butt in. You have been to Europe?"

"Yes, sir."

"They knew you were an American?"

"They did."

"You talked with many men?"

"A great many."

"Did any of them refer to the political corruption in this country?"

"No."

"Nor to the cold storage sharks?"

"No."

"The beef trust?"

"No."

"The coal robbers?"

"No."

"The extortion in express rates?"

"No."

"To the trusts in everything, even in railroads?"

"No."

"To the buying and selling of senators?"

"No."

"Then, my dear man, you be kind enough to tell me in which direction Europe lies and how long it will take me to get there. I want to go there instead of to heaven."

AN OLD SWEETHEART OF MINE

As one who comes at evening o'er an album all alone, The musing on the faces of the friends that he has known, So I turn the leaves of fancy, till in shadowy design I find the smiling features of an old sweetheart of mine.

The lamplight seems to flicker with a glimmer of surprise, As I turn it low to rest me of the day's toils in my eyes, And light my pipe in silence, save a sign that seems to yoke Its fate with my tobacco and vanish in the smoke.

'Tis a fragrant retrospection, for the loving thoughts that start Into being are like perfume from the blossoms of the heart, And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine.

When my transient fancy wanders with that old sweetheart of mine, Though I hear beneath my study, like a fluttering of wings, The voices of my children, and the mother while she sings, I feel no twinge of conscience to deny me any theme.

When care has cast her anchor in the harbor of a dream, In fact, to speak in earnest, I believe it adds a charm To spice the goods a trifle with a little dust of harm:

For I find an extra flavor in memory's mellow wine That makes me drink the deeper to that old sweetheart of mine.

A face of lily beauty and a form of airy grace, Fleets out from my tobacco as a genius from the vase, And I thrill beneath the glances of a pair of azure eyes

As glowing as the summer, and as tender as the skies.

I can see the pink sunbonnet and the little checkered dress She wore when I first kissed her, and she answered the caress, With the written declaration that "as surely as the vine Grew 'round the stump" she loved me—that old sweetheart of mine.

And again I feel the pressure of her slender little hand As we used to talk together of the future we had planned, When I should be a poet, with nothing else to do, But to write the tender verses that she'd set the music to.

When we should live together in a cozy little cot, Hid in a nest of roses with a tiny garden-spot, Where the vines are ever fruitful and the weather ever fine, And the birds were ever singing of that old sweetheart of mine.

When I should be her lover forever and a day, And she my faithful sweetheart till her golden hair was gray; And we should be so happy that, when either's lips were dumb, They should not smile in heaven till the other's kiss had come.

But, ah! my dream is broken by a step upon the stair, And the door is softly opened, and my wife is standing there, Yet with eagerness and rapture my visions I resign To meet the loving presence of that old sweetheart of mine!

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Speaking of watermelons, these are the "meloncolic" days.

of the past decade. A similar comparison of the receipts at the four principal eastern markets shows a decrease in May, 1912, and an increase during the five months' period of 1912.

There was a very material falling off in exports in May, 1912, when compared with May, 1911.

The aggregate May receipts of live stock at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Sioux City were 2,255,664 head in 1912, and 3,550,875 head in 1911, a decrease of 8 per cent. The receipts of cattle, hogs, sheep and horses and mules show in each case a decrease, while the receipts of calves at the five markets which report calves separately, show an increase. The aggregate receipts at these markets during the five months' period ending with May were 18,373,433 head in 1912, and 18,875,152 head in 1911, an increase of about 3 per cent.

Cattle and calves: The receipts of cattle at these markets in May, 1912, were 565,353 head, a decrease of 18 per cent, when compared with 623,720 head received in May, 1911. Calves on the other hand show an increase of about 3 per cent, the receipts at the five markets reporting them separately being 96,286 head in May, 1912, and 93,551 head in May, 1911. The receipts of calves during the five months of the present year were 5,333,443 head, a decrease of 8 per cent, when compared with the same period in 1911. The receipts of calves at the five markets reporting them separately during the five months of 1912 amounted to 322,892 head, an increase of about 2 per cent, over the same five months of 1911, and the largest number received during the corresponding months of any year in the past decade. The May, 1912, receipts of cattle show an increase at St. Paul and Sioux City and a decrease at each of the above-mentioned interior markets, when compared with the receipts in May, 1911.

Hogs: The number of hogs received at the seven principal western markets in May, 1912, 1,913,736 head, was 3 per cent, less than in May, 1911, although it is slightly greater than in April of the present year. The receipts during the first five months of the present year, 10,268,315 head, were about 14 per cent, greater than during the corresponding period in 1911. This number was exceeded only once for the corresponding period in the past decade, namely, in 1908, when 10,707,463 head of hogs were received at these markets. The receipts in May, 1912, compared with those in May, 1911, show an increase at Omaha, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Sioux City, and a decrease at Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Sheep: The May, 1912, receipts of sheep at the seven principal markets, 715,513 head, show a decrease of nearly 13 per cent, when compared with May, 1911. The aggregate receipts during the first five months of the present year, however, 4,658,162 head, when compared with the corresponding period in 1911, show an increase of 12 per cent. The receipts of sheep during the first five months of the present year were larger than during the corresponding five months of any of the 10 preceding years. The May receipts of sheep show an increase at Kansas City and St. Paul, and a decrease at each of the other five principal western markets, when compared with the May receipts in 1911.

Cars: The number of loaded live-stock cars received at the seven markets was 53,147 in May, 1912, a decrease of 15 per cent, when compared with May, 1911.

Live Stock at Atlantic Ports: The total May receipts of food live stock at the four leading Atlantic seaport cities of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, were 636,018 head in 1912 and 718,232 head in 1911, a decrease of 3 per cent. The receipts during the first five months ending in May were 3,585,229 head in 1912 and 3,511,374 head in 1911, an increase of nearly 10 per cent. The May receipts show a decrease in 1912 as compared with 1911 at New York and Baltimore, and an increase in Boston and Philadelphia.

Packing House Products: The May shipments of packing house products from Chicago were 171,221,125 pounds in 1912 and 184,578,875 pounds in 1911, a decrease of 7 per cent. There was an increase in the shipments of canned and cured meats, pork and stearine and a decrease in the shipments of fresh and pickled beef, dressed hogs, hides, lard and tallow.

Stocks of meat on hand: The stocks of meat on hand in May, 1912, at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Joseph and Milwaukee, 329,170,583 pounds, were considerably greater than in May of each year of the two preceding years, although the quantity was less than in any of the three preceding months of the present year.

Exports of food animals: A very marked decline is reported in the exports of food live stock in May, 1912, as compared with May, 1911, namely, 71,732 and 42,576 head, respectively, a decrease of 72 per cent. The cattle exports in May were 3189 head in 1912, and 29,232 head in 1911; hogs, 2314 head in 1912 and 1807 head in 1911; and sheep, 6234 head in 1912 and 50,627 head in May, 1911. The exports of cattle, hogs and sheep during the 11 months ending in May, 1912, were 365,162 head, an increase of 11 per cent over the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

Exports of meat products: The value of the aggregate exports of domestic meat products was $13,183,558 in May, 1912, and $15,050,797 in May, 1911, a decrease of 12 per cent. The value of these exports during the 11 months of the present fiscal year, however, shows an increase of 7 per cent, namely, $142,058,070, as compared with $132,371,383 during the same period of the preceding year.

KITTEN RESCUED

WAS MAROONED ON "ISLAND" FOR TWO DAYS

Agents Richardson and Gilmore of the Humane society rescued a little kitten Saturday afternoon that had been marooned for two days on a small island in the Concord river, below the Rogers street bridge. It is said that the kitten was taken to the river and thrown in by some one not acquainted with the waters, and as Kitty had been there before she was not to be drowned and swam around, finally getting to the island, where she remained until assistance arrived. Some one telephoned to the Humane society office, and the two agents went to the scene, and after hunting around for some time for a boat finally got one from the Electric Light company and pulled to the island where they saved the kitten.

1500 MEN IDLE

ONLY 500 AT WORK AT CHARLES-TOWN NAVY YARD

BOSTON, Mass., July 1.—Nearly 1500 men of the 2000 employed at the Charlestown navy yard were affected by a lay-off which went into effect today because of the failure of congress to make provision for the payment of their wages. Because of the non-provision to supply money for work Commander Coffman was enabled to keep only those employees working who are absolutely necessary and which include police, firemen and clerks. Customs employees are affected also.

BOY WAS DROWNED WHILE BATHING

The Victim Was Edouard Landry

A drowning accident occurred late Saturday afternoon, when Edouard Landry, aged 6 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Landry of 2 Varley place, Lakeview avenue, lost his life in the Merrimack river below Beaver brook. The little fellow with a companion of about the same age, William Vachon, was enjoying a dip at a spot where the water is no more than three feet deep, when he suddenly sank to the bottom. The Vachon boy rushed for assistance and soon returned to the scene with a young man named Albert Morin. The latter looking into the water saw the body of the Landry boy and he immediately pulled it to shore, but it was too late, as life was extinct. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker Joseph Albert and later to the home of the parents.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

I had a week's vacation, so I took what I had to blow—Which wasn't much, I will admit—and thought I'd have a "time" with it.

I drifted to the seashore, and just walked around upon the sand. When, from the stillness of the air I heard a voice—a lady fair!

Perhaps it was some daughter fair Of some big bloated millionaire; Perhaps I'd marry her and be As big a millionaire as he.

Well, soon I had the girl in low; I must admit I didn't know. What kind of girl she chanced to be; I really hadn't time to see.

At last I chanced to turn my eyes, And just imagine my surprise To find her looking up at me, As homely as a girl could be.

It made me mad to find that she Had simply tried to annex me. I'd rather work hard all my life Than have that kiddo for a wife.

Wilson Still Gaining Over Clark

Break in Several Delegations Added to Vote for New Jersey's Governor

33 BALLOTS HAVE BEEN TAKEN WITHOUT A CHOICE—MAY BE NO NOMINATION TODAY

RESULTS OF THE BALLOTS TAKEN TODAY

When the democratic national convention adjourned at 11 o'clock Saturday night twenty-six ballots had been taken without a choice, but with Wilson gaining on each ballot. The result of the voting today was:

Ballot	Clark	Wilson	Underwood	Foss	Marshall	Harmon	Bryan	Kern
27	469	406½	112	38	30	29	1	1
28	468½	437½	112½	38	29	29	1	4
29	468½	436	112	38	29	29	1	3
30	455	460	121½	30	19	19	1	2
31	446½	475½	116½	30	17	17	1	2
32	446½	477½	118½	28	14	14	1	2
33	447½	477½	103½	28	29	29	1	2

BALTIMORE, Md., July 1.—The convention hall was again the center of attention from an early hour today. Crowds began to besiege the entrances by 9 o'clock, and by ten the galleries were half filled and a sprinkling of delegates had taken their places on the floor.

A cool breeze promised relief from the exhausting heat of previous sessions. Eager interest was everywhere manifested in the struggle about to be renewed, and speculation was abundant as to whether the deadlock would be broken.

The prevailing sentiment from the floor was that nothing definite had thus far been accomplished to bring the deadlock to a close and that, if anything, the lines were quite as tight, or tighter, than before, although all recognized that the convention has been replete with so many sudden and sensational changes that a break or a new coup might come at any time.

By 10:15 the galleries were filled to their limits, with waiting lines still falling in. Scattered delegations were unplaced, but few had come in a body and those around which the storm raged furthest, Missouri, New Jersey and New York, were among the last arrivals.

Many of the state delegations held informal caucuses in their sections of the convention hall, where the events since Saturday were discussed. The controversy between Speaker Clark and Mr. Bryan was the uppermost subject of the conversation. In all corners of the hall men engaged in heated debate.

The Illinois delegation of fifty-eight, headed by Roger C. Sullivan, was one of the last to reach the hall, having been in formal caucus since 10 o'clock. Illinois stood unanimously and firmly for Clark throughout the 26 ballots. Following the seventh ballot there had been continual rumors of a break in Illinois and today this was revived, though no announcement of any contemplated break was made before the 27th roll call began.

"We are prepared to stay until the snow flies," said Congressman Pence, a Champ Clark delegate from the District of Columbia upon arrival at the hall.

"Whatever happens, we can hold more than the 265 necessary to prevent a nomination and after the treatment awarded Mr. Clark in refusing him the honor after he had received a majority, we will stick to the death."

When Chairman James appeared on the platform at 11 o'clock there were many vacant seats on the floor.

There was no band today, its contract having expired. The bandstand was occupied by a bevy of Baltimore beauties.

A few minutes after 11 Chairman James called the convention to order, and the Rev. S. Carroll Coall of the First M. E. church of Baltimore offered prayer.

Cheers for Bryan

William J. Bryan appeared on the floor just at the conclusion of the prayer and a cheer swept the convention hall as he strode up the aisle and took his seat with the Nebraska delegation. The commoner was smiling happily and he held an animated conversation with several delegates. Chairman James quieted the crowd and he appealed to the galleries to maintain order throughout the session.

Theodore A. Bell of California was then recognized. He made a motion that a committee be appointed to secure the collection of return trip railroad tickets held by delegates.

The motion was adopted and the committee appointed. The roll call was then begun.

Galleries Noisy

One of the galleries became noisy and Chairman James ordered the police to clear any section of the gallery that renewed the disturbance.

When New York was called a poll of the delegation, the first since the balloting began, was demanded.

Abram L. Elkins of the 11th New York district was the first New Yorker to vote for Wilson and a round of cheers greeted him. William G. McAdoo was the second.

Stanchfield Attacks Bryan

When the name of John B. Stanchfield was reached he took the platform to explain his vote.

"I come from a state whose electoral vote is vital to democratic success," began Stanchfield. "We represent ten million people."

Stanchfield then started to review the history of New York politics and the delegates showed signs of becoming impatient.

"Is there any limit to the gentleman's time?" asked a Michigan delegate.

"New York has a right to be heard on the floor of this convention," returned Stanchfield. "The integrity of every delegate from New York has been impugned and insulted."

Stanchfield reviewed the New York delegation, declaring that it included jurists, lawyers and business men of known standing.

"It is by common consent the most representative delegation that ever came to a national convention from New York."

"If these be the 'puppets of wax' that Mr. Bryan refers to, we say to that money-grabbing, office-seeking, publicity-hunting Marplot of Nebraska."

Stanchfield could not conclude the sentence. It was drowned in a burst of cheers.

While the speaker delivered this attack Bryan sat quietly in his seat. He watched Stanchfield closely and occasionally smiled.

New York's Vote Needed

"I desire to say again: the vote of New York is vital to success," continued Mr. Stanchfield. "And no man can go forth from this convention stigmatized and branded with the mark of Bryanism upon him and come within half a million votes of success."

"When Mr. Bryan makes the statement that these delegates from New York are under the influence of Morgan and Bryan and Belmont, the plutocrats of this convention, he omits one name. Outside of the three he has named, the richest and most powerful plutocrat on the floor is the gentleman from Nebraska himself."

"If the New York delegation is to be prevented from participating then any man who for pay has been writing from the floor of the republicanism convention in favor of Bryan's partner and ally, Theodore Roosevelt, must also be excluded."

"Col. Bryan never intended to support the candidate of this convention unless that candidate was Mr. Bryan himself," said Stanchfield.

"We have heard for months that Mr. Bryan was combatting Underwood here and Wilson there, working all the time in his own selfish interest to produce a deadlock here."

Votes For Wilson

In conclusion Stanchfield threw the convention into disorder with the declaration, "I cast my vote for Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey."

As the roll continued it became apparent that Clark would again get New York's 50 votes under the unit rule. It was generally believed that the vote had been challenged and the roll demanded for the sole purpose of enabling Stanchfield to deliver his attack on Bryan.

Under the unit rule New York's 50 went to Clark. Illinois, which had been passed in the roll call, cast 58 votes for Clark. The Illinois delegates fled into their seats while the poll of the New York delegation was in progress. The caucus resulted in a determination to stand by Clark, for whom the 58 votes had been cast since the beginning of the balloting.

The 27th Ballot

The result of the 27th ballot was: Clark 469½; Wilson 468½; Underwood 112½; Foss 38; Marshall 30; Harmon 29; Bryan 1; Kern 1.

This gave Clark a gain of 5½; Wilson a loss of 1 and Underwood a loss of ½ as compared with the 26th ballot.

A resolution introduced by J. B. Knox, exploring the bitterness of the convention and calling for a united front in order to facilitate the work of the convention, was referred to the resolutions committee without reading.

Indiana Breaks

The 28th roll call went as far as Indiana before any material shift was made. Then the convention went wild as Senator Shively announced: "Kern 1; Wilson 29."

The Indiana vote had heretofore gone solid to Marshall.

After conferring with a number of friends Mr. Bryan said it was unlikely that he would reply to the speech of Mr. Stanchfield.

It was reported that Senator Rayner of Maryland might seek the opportunity to defend the progressives.

Pennsylvania added one to her usual vote of 71 for Wilson.

The 28th Ballot

The result of the 28th ballot was: Clark 469½; Wilson 437½; Underwood 112½; Harmon 29; Foss 38; Kern 1; Bryan 1; absent ½. Marshall was eliminated, 29 of his 30 votes in Indiana going to Wilson, who gained 31 on the ballot. Clark lost 1½.

A dispute in the Iowa delegation showed that the state stood Clark 14½; Wilson 11½, but under the unit rule the entire vote of the state went to Clark.

Another wrangle followed when Kansas was called.

The chairman of the delegation asked that the state be passed. A dozen delegates yelled: "We want to vote now. Two-thirds of this delegation are for Wilson and we want the vote cast that way."

The delegation was ordered polled.

The vote was: Wilson 13; Clark 6, absent 1, and the vote of Kansas, 20 in all, went over into the Wilson column. When James ruled that the vote should go to Wilson, Theodore A. Bell secured the floor after a disorderly dispute, to argue against changing the vote of Kansas for Wilson.

The delegates were impatient and Bell was frequently interrupted. He argued that the Kansas delegation could not shift to Wilson until two-thirds of the delegation voted for Wilson. He asserted 15 was not two-thirds and contended that 20 votes should go to Clark.

Bell had trouble getting a hearing, and his argument was punctuated by jeers and cat calls.

"Sing it," shouted a delegate as he neared the conclusion.

A Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, the Wilson leader, answered Bell. He said with only 15 Kansas delegates on the floor thirteen constituted two-thirds of the delegation and their votes should control the state's votes.

Ben Gaizel of the Wilson men in the Kansas delegation, asserted that 14 of the delegates from that state had voted yesterday for Clark.

Chairman James ruled that the two-thirds of the delegates present and gave the 20 votes to Wilson.

The result of the 29th ballot was: Clark 468½; Wilson 436; Underwood 112; Foss 38; Harmon 29; Kern 1.

This gave Clark a loss of 1½ a vote; Wilson a gain of 1½; Bryan lost his single vote and Kern gained 1.

Wilson Takes Lead

The 30th ballot was momentous until Ohio was reached. Then ten of Harmon's 29 went to Underwood. Wilson's 19 remained intact.

Vermont gave Foss on this ballot and that state's eight votes went to Wilson.

The result of the 30th ballot put Wilson in the lead.

The vote of Iowa, which had been passed, gave Wilson 11; Clark 12, 1½ to that time the entire vote of 25 had gone to Clark. When the vote was announced a rollcall of the delegation was demanded. Iowa's vote as announced gave Wilson the lead of the ballot with 460 votes. It gave Clark 453. Cheers greeted each Wilson vote as it was announced during the rollcall.

Thirty-First Ballot

The result of the 31st ballot was: Total 1688. Clark, 448½; Wilson, 475½; Underwood, 116½; Harmon, 17; Kern, 2; Foss, 39; absent, ½.

Two More For Clark

22nd ballot total official. Total 1688. Clark, 448½; Wilson, 477½; Underwood, 115½; Harmon, 14; Kern, 2; Foss, 39; absent, ½.

Wilson Holds His Own

Wilson merely held his own on the 22d ballot while Clark gained one from Underwood, the leaders then standing: Wilson 477½; Clark 447½; Official 477½; Wilson 477½; Underwood 153½; Harmon 29; Kern 2; Foss 38; absent ½.

Delegates Came to Blows

Bryan was the center of a riotous scene. Missouri delegation attempted to carry a Clark banner in front of Bryan. He indignantly resented the move and twice tried to reach the platform. A howling crowd surrounded him pushing and demonstrating. Once he reached the platform, then returned and engaged in angry demonstrations with members of the Missouri

ALD. BARRETT AND LAWYER DONAHUE CLASHED AGAIN TODAY AT STILES HEARING

The hearing on the charges of Ald. Barrett against City Treasurer Stiles was resumed before the municipal council this forenoon and there was some loud noise in the aldermanic chamber. The hearing has been going on now for some time and very little has been shown on either side. The charges are based, in great measure, on the report of the expert accountant, who examined the financial books of the city and charges, a bit sensational, were made. The expert accountant, Mr. George M. Rex, said he had been informed that changes had been made on the books in the treasurer's office since the expert accountant's report was made, and while Mr. Rex attempted to prove that the changes had been made after his report had been published, Assistant City Treasurer Earrell insisted that the changes in question had been made before the publication of Mr. Rex's report and in the presence and by the request of Mr. Rex's assistants. There were some hot exchanges during the hearing.

Mayor O'Donnell called to order at 10:25. Several minor petitions having to do with street improvements, polo locations, etc. were properly referred.

The communication from Albert S. Howard, attorney, for C. Arthur Abbott, relative to the election of Daniel E. Hogan as assessor of taxes was read by the mayor. All correspondence connected with the matter has already appeared in The Sun.

On the motion of Ald. Barrett the delegation, then again pointed the platform escorted by a policeman. He stood there pale and apparently deeply moved while pandemonium reigned and the convention was in a frenzy and disorder. The Missouri banner was pushed forward to the platform and then thrown back by an opposing throng. Every delegate in the convention was on his chair shouting madly.

A fist fight occurred immediately in front of the delegates while the tumult was at its height, policemen separating the combatants.

REP. A. M. PALMER

IS TALKED OF AS A DARK HORSE

BALTIMORE, July 1.—Progressive leaders, canvassing the field for an available man to break the convention deadlock in the event of a failure to nominate Gov. Wilson seriously considered Rep. A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Palmer has been active in the progressive camp and has voted throughout for Gov. Wilson. He is a member of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives and the father of the economy resolution which was passed when the democrats gained control of that body.

CIVIL SESSION

SUIT AGAINST TWO INSURANCE COMPANIES HEARD TODAY

The cases of Alexander Smith, executor for the estate of the late John Karbar vs. the Prudential Life Insurance company, and the same vs. the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, were called on continuance at the civil session of the police court this afternoon before Judge Pickman, and after several witnesses were heard they were continued till Friday afternoon.

In this case Smith sues both companies for the recovery of $300 from each company, which represent the amount of policies deceased was holding at the time of his death which occurred at the Tavksbury hospital on Sept. 11, 1911.

The companies refused to pay on the grounds that the policies were obtained by fraud and fraudulent representations. The case was first tried before Judge Pickman on June 12, and continued till this afternoon when it was resumed.

Lawyer John W. McEvoy for the plaintiff and Hon. Charles T. Cottrell of Boston for the Prudential company, while James F. Bacon of Boston represents the Metropolitan company.

BATTLESHIP LOUISIANA AGROUND IN NARRA BAY

BRISTOL, R. I., July 1.—The battleship Louisiana went aground today in Narragansett Bay. It was thought that the ship would clear herself at high water tonight. The place where the Louisiana grounded is 1000 yards northeast of Hog Island light, on the northern end of the island of Rhode Island, and about two miles from Bristol, in the vicinity of Bristol Ferry.

The removal of one of the channel buoys by a government steamer is said by officers of the battleship to have caused the grounding.

The Louisiana is commanded by Captain Wells and is the flagship of Rear Admiral Winslow, commander of the first division of the Atlantic battleship fleet. The ship sailed from Baltimore on Saturday and was bound to Bristol to participate in the independence day celebration.

The battleship grounded on a soft bottom and was in no danger from heavy seas, because of the sheltered position of the bay at Bristol Ferry.

Every Person On Board

Was Killed

EL PASO, Texas, July 1.—Col. Castuella Herrera, of the rebel garrison in Juarez, announced this afternoon that a message from Chihuahua gave details of the blowing up of a federal troop train by rebels and the killing of all the troop board—20 coaches. The rebels were attempting to enter a pass according to the telegram, when mines laid by the rebels were exploded.

LARCENY CHARGE

MAN ACCUSED OF STEALING WATCH AND MONEY

Sergeant William Groux and Inspector Charles Lafamme this morning arrested a man who gave the name of Costas Kanalaros, for the larceny of a watch and $5 in cash from one James Cote. The man was booked at the station and will be arraigned in court tomorrow morning.

According to Cote's story he met Costas when he did not know, on the street last night and after listening to a hard luck story, took him to his room on the Lawrence corporation for a night's lodging. After some time, however, it seems that James did not like Costas' actions and he ordered him out of his room, and he went. Later on James found that his gold watch valued at $30 and $5 in cash had disappeared, and he immediately notified the police, giving also the description of the man whom he had lodged for a short time.

Costas was apprehended in Market street this morning by Sgt. Groux and Inspector Lafamme and the police say they found the watch on him. When questioned about the watch he said he purchased it.

200 KILLED BY TORNADO---PROPERTY LOSS IS $10,000,000---MANY PERSONS KILLED

REGINA, Sask., July 1.—The havoc wrought by the tornado which struck this city early last night is appalling. Citizens aided the police throughout the night in rescuing the injured and recovering bodies of the dead from the ruins. It will be late today before the exact number of dead is known, but it is thought it will reach 200. The property loss may reach $10,000,000. The storm lasted only a short time; in fact it was over so quickly that the people hardly had time to realize what had taken place and some of the escapes from death were miraculous. Buildings only a block from the path of the storm were injured only slightly. The first intimation that those outside of the storm zone had of the disaster was when three girls who had escaped from the wrecked telephone exchange belonging to the government telephone lines appeared at a news-paper office and told their experiences. The young women had slid from the second floor of the telephone building to the basement, carried down by a 15-ton switchboard. Soon hundreds of willing hands began the work of rescue, which will not be finished before tonight. The electric light plant supplying the city was put out of commission when the storm struck, adding confusion and retarding the work. Many freaks of the wind are shown. The roof of a factory building was carried three blocks and crashed through a handsome new residence. Four livery stables were demolished and every horse in each of them killed. The escape of 75 girls, working in the telephone exchange was probably the most miraculous of any. The building was demolished. It was at first believed that a large number had been killed. Superintendent Sutherland wired the general office at Winnipeg early in the night that probably 20 girls had been killed and forty injured. This proved to be untrue. Just how many were injured is not known, but none were killed or fatally injured. On Lorn street, one of the principal residence thoroughfares, scarcely a building is left standing. The Canadian railway yards is a flat expanse of ruins, shops and trains. Not a whole car remains in the yard. Some of them were picked up by the wind and carried for several blocks. The whole north side of the city is practically wiped out. No one knows how many are dead on that side. A canoe was carried from Wascana lake to Victoria Park, a distance of one quarter of a mile, and dropped there. Sailing vessels were picked out of the water and strewn over the southern portion of the city. The cupola of the Baptist church was dropped in the middle of the street three blocks away. Late in the evening clerks were working in the ruins of the local branch of the Royal Bank setting things to rights when some men, seeing the door unlocked walked in and demanded the money there to their credit. One of the largest grain elevators facing the railway yards was picked up bodily and carried a distance of 50 feet from its foundation. There were many pathetic incidents during the night of searching for dead and wounded, when the workers discovered some member of their own family among the debris. Many families were separated at the time of the storm. The day had been extremely hot and many had sought comfort in the parks. A large number of people were out on the waters of Wascana lake when the storm broke and five are known to have been drowned. The work of relief for those made so suddenly destitute, has been started. Every home in the city that is standing has been thrown open to the homeless. Early last evening Mayor McAra, the civic authorities and a number of prominent citizens formed a relief organization. Two temporary hospitals were opened, one in Immigration Hall and one in a city block, each being supplied with doctors and nurses who have volunteered their services. Premier Scott early conferred with Mayor McAra and stated that the provincial government would at once place $25,000 at the disposal of the city authorities and more would be forthcoming if necessary. Steps have been taken to recall the local militia, now in camp at Camp Sewell. Meanwhile the police are guarding the ruined strip to prevent pillaging of the damaged property.

BIG BATTLE EXPECTED IN MEXICO TODAY

Government Troops Advance on the Rebel Force—Gen. Huerta Near Bachimba

AT THE REBEL FRONT, Bachimba, Mexico, July 1.—In three columns the government troops advanced toward the rebel front today by way of Consuelo eight miles south of here. During the day the two armies were expected to engage in the first big battle since the rebels were defeated at Rellano nearly four weeks ago. It is estimated that 10,000 men will be engaged on both sides.

The federal artillery with a regiment of cavalry advanced on the east side of the railroad, while further east about 1200 cavalry and infantry were marching early today. To the west 1000 federal cavalry and light mountain artillery were being moved.

It appeared quite likely that the federal advance would stop at the front, a short distance south and west of Bachimba mountain pass, where it was anticipated that the government would begin shelling the rebel positions with heavy artillery while flanking columns of cavalry moved up under the cannon fire.

HUERTA NEAR BACHIMBA
AT THE FEDERAL HEADQUARTERS, Consuelo, Mexico, July 1.—Discovering scores of rebel mines, the entire federal division under Gen. Teller advanced to within a few miles of Bachimba early today prepared to give the rebels battle later in the day.

LAKEVIEW PARK
Another exhibition of Italian fireworks will be given at Lakeview Park next Tuesday evening. There will be an entire change of program with a number of special features which will be unusually brilliant and colorful. The spectacular feature of the exhibition will be an effect especially designed for the occasion. It is called the "Spouting Geysers of the Yellowstone" and will reproduce these wonders of nature that have made the great national park famous, except that they will appear in more marvelous colorings. Sunday afternoon and evening there will be band concerts. Starting Sunday evening, July 7th, there will be sacred concerts at the theatre. "A Bunch of Keys," a lively musical comedy, will be presented in the theatre every afternoon and evening at next week.

LOWELL MEN ARE BACK

One Week of Convention
Was Sufficient

Humphrey O'Sullivan, Patrick Kelly, Cornelius Cronin and James Hearn arrived home from the Baltimore convention last evening being a part of the great exodus of visitors who fled from the convention city on Saturday night mortally afraid to spend a Sabbath in that steam-heated burg. Mr. O'Sullivan transacted some necessary business and took his departure again, arriving back in Baltimore this afternoon in time for the afternoon session. Judge Riley of Malden returned with the party in order to preside over a session of the Malden police court this morning.

Mr. O'Sullivan intended to remain at home for a few days to attend to personal business and delegated J. Joseph O'Connor of this city to vote for him but last Saturday afternoon it was announced that each delegate would be obliged to be present and vote on his own name on all roll calls. This caused hundreds of delegates to change their plans and remain in Baltimore. At the time of their departure for Lowell the indications were that the convention would go well into this week. After the nomination of a candidate for president will be necessary to nominate a candidate for vice president and then adopt the platform. A roll call, or, in other words, each of the 25 votes taken for president requires nearly an hour's time, so one can realize the great amount of time consumed in taking the many ballots already announced. It was anybody's fight Saturday night, for while Clark dropped a few and Wilson had made small but steady gain, Clark retained the lead. The Foss supporters are confident that he will have as good a chance as anyone. The Clark people are banking on Underwood throwing his strength to Clark, but there is war to the knife between Clark and Wilson.

Unlike many of the other delegations there was little in the nature of a spirit of unity among the Massachusetts delegates. While the popular vote of the primaries favored Clark by a substantial majority, some of the Massachusetts delegates wanted badly to shift for Wilson and two of them did so. Some of them voted for Foss because he was from Massachusetts, and acted as if they were performing an unpleasant duty in so doing.

Judge Riley of Malden got himself disliked by some of the Boston bunch by making a speech urging them to respect the primaries and the constituents and stick to Clark until it became apparent that he had no chance. Humphrey O'Sullivan also spoke along these lines, although Mr. O'Sullivan was a red-hot Foss man and would do all in his power to aid the governor once the latter started. The Vermont delegation was the first entire delegation to go to Foss. Outside of the Vermonters and the Massachusetts delegation, Foss had one delegate from Louisiana and one from Ohio.

Massachusetts was signally honored in the convention during the week, mainly through the efforts of Humphrey O'Sullivan, who was "on the job" all the time. Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston was chairman of the Massachusetts delegation and Edward Higgins of Lynn secretary. On Friday the Massachusetts delegation presented Mr. Higgins, a beautiful gold watch, Major Robert J. Crowley of Lowell was an assistant master-at-arms. Con Cronin of this city was a doorkeeper; Judge Riley of Malden was one of the first speakers to address the convention and was subsequently elected clerk of the convention while Mr. O'Sullivan has been offered membership on the committee to notify the successful candidate of his nomination.

The Massachusetts visitors, particularly those from Lowell, were much interested in Pratt street, the scene of the 1834 riot, recently fenced in 1881. They found there what appeared to be the same old cobblestones that were there half a century ago.

Saturday, July 6th, is "Quarrel Day" at the Lowell Five Cent Saloons, bank, cor. Merrimack and John streets.

MAZDAZNAN CONVENTION WILL COME TO CLOSE TONIGHT

DR. GEORGE W. HILTON

High Priestess Hilton Discussed the Question of Woman Suffrage

A woman's conference is now in session at the Mazdaznan temple, Spentia Maria, on Columbus avenue. The temple is small and is beautifully decorated. The services are held on the second floor, where there is a seating capacity for about seventy-five people. Dr. Hanish, oftentimes called the "Little Christ," officiated today, assisted by High Priestess Hilton. Dr. Hanish wore a beautiful red surplice, Mrs. Hilton wearing a purple gown. The little temple was filled to its capacity.

the greater part of the congregation consisting of women. Ottoman Zar-Adush Hanish, who has become quite notorious of late through newspaper articles, is a small man with unusually impressive mannerisms and a very fluent speaker with a large vocabulary, having a peculiar but pleasing manner in pronouncing his words. He has complete control over his audience who listen to his sermons as though spellbound. The services commenced this morning by the singing of a hymn in some dead language, followed by an address by Dr. Hanish. Mrs. Hilton said that there were many present from other cities and countries and that they were all here to discuss the question of woman suffrage. "Every woman should have the right to use the ballot box," she said. "As the Mazdaznans were to give the word of the god Mazda to the world at large they would undoubtedly be able to settle the question which at present is arousing so much among both sexes." Dr. Hanish followed Mrs. Hilton with an address, saying that the image of God is in every man and woman, that they were not going to believe in the absurd ideas of tendencies and diseases inherited from their ancestors, and that each one would and could be just as he desired, and that they have and were going to exempt themselves from all use of the knife and herbal medicines. The congregation then sang "Yes, We Will the Creator," while Dr. Hanish held a mirror in front of their faces. Breathing exercises followed, the members of the cult first taking a deep breath, then repeating words in some unintelligible tongue, stopping at a certain time and again commencing.

The convention will close tonight. The word Mazdaznan comes from the Zend word, meaning master thought, which embraces the system of thought, word and deed, and deals with life from birth until death. One of the principal teachings of Mazda is the physical care of the body. The Mazdaznans claim that members of their sect are the physical superiors of any outsiders and that they live a much longer life. All Mazdaznans are strict vegetarians as it is against their doctrine to kill any living object, as they contain the soul of a human being. Professor Richard E. Hanish, father of Dr. Ottoman Zar-Adush Hanish, "Little Father" of Mazdaznan, who is a music teacher at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, tells the following story relative to himself and family. "Our home in Europe was in Breslau. There were three boys—Otto Zacharius (Ottoman Zar-Adush) was the youngest. You know him. Richard was the second. He is now a Baptist minister near St. Louis. "In Breslau I had a good government position. I held the office of interpreter and was associated with people of rank. My salary was good and I was able to give my boys a good education. The oldest of the boys now holds a position in Breslau, similar to the one his father held when he was a child. "As a child Otto was the favorite son. When a baby he was the pride of the family in which we lived. His blue eyes and brown curls made him beloved by every one. Two days after he was born there were a number of women who wanted to adopt him as their son. Every one loved him. "At school he was a very apt pupil. He was far beyond his class in the study of languages and was able to

Woman Charged With Polygamy and Held for the Grand Jury in $400—Other Cases

A boy named Adams, who resides in Portland, Me., was arrested early yesterday morning by Inspector Walsh and Sergt. Ryan on a complaint charging him with the larceny of an automobile valued at $750, the property of Richard A. O'Connell, local manager of the Hallett & Davis Piano Co., in Merrimack street.

Mr. O'Connell left his runabout in John street, near his place of business, Saturday night, and when he closed the store and went into the street to locate the car he found that it was missing.

He reported the matter to the police and as a result of what they learned a visit was made to the house where the youth was stopping and it is alleged that the number plates which had been taken off the machine were found in the house.

The auto was located in a yard on Christian hill. In police court this morning Lawyer James J. Kerwin appeared for the defendant and after waiving the reading of the complaint entered a plea of not guilty. Probable cause was found and the defendant was held under $500 for his appearance before the superior court.

Serious Charge Preferred

Peter Ducas who was charged with drunkenness and being armed with a dangerous weapon, a knife, pleaded not guilty. Patrolman George Abbott testified that he arrested the man in Merrimack street Saturday afternoon and Lieut. Martin Maher corroborated the testimony. Patrolman Abbott produced a long bladed knife which he said was found on the defendant's person.

The defendant said he purchased the knife at a pawn shop and intended to use it at his work in the card room of one of the local mills. He denied that he intended to use the knife on any of his fellow-countrymen and also that he was drunk.

On cross-examination he said that he had had trouble with a man in Market street Saturday afternoon and immediately afterwards purchased the knife.

The court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15.

Drunken Offenders

George H. Douglas, a young man, was charged with drunkenness. He was under an appeal sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory and the court sentenced him to three months in jail. For the second time within a few weeks he entered an appeal.

read French, Latin and considerable English before he was fifteen. Comes to America

"When Otto was fifteen I had a chance to come to America. I had become acquainted with a Professor Rauschenbusch, head of the German-American Academy at the Rochester (N. Y.) Theological Seminary. I disliked to give up my position in Breslau and would not have come to America had it not been for my sons, who urged me.

"Otto was especially anxious to come and it was greatly to please him and to heed the will of his mother, who constantly favored him, that I yielded. My oldest son remained in Breslau. Otto was then fifteen years old.

"At Rochester everything went well and I taught in the academy, where Richard also went to school. Otto did not care to continue his school and he there learned the printing trade. Evenings, however, he continued his studies and was constantly with his books. Both my wife and I feared that he would injure his health by so much study.

"In church—we were Baptists as in

Edward J. Martel and John J. Horne were given suspended sentences to the state farm and placed in the custody of the probation officer for terms of six months each. Patrick Knight, who was on probation, had the suspension of his former sentence revoked and was sentenced to the state farm. He appealed.

Annie McCabe, who was on parole from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

Three Sunday drunks were ordered to pay a fine of $5 each. William F. Nicholson, John Wingrass and John J. Sullivan were fined $2 each, and five first offenders were each ordered to pay a fine of $2.

Stole Flowers

Helen and Effie Alexopoulos, two girls, were charged with the larceny of flowers from a garden. They were found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $3 each.

Serious Charge Preferred

Annie Markovitch, who appeared in court last week, was brought to trial before Judge Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging her with polygamy. Through her counsel she entered a plea of not guilty but at the conclusion of the case the court found probable cause of guilt and held the defendant under $400 bonds for her appearance before the grand jury.

The first witness for the government was Anthony Maximova, who testified that he resides at 7 Spring street and knew the defendant in the old country 15 years ago. He said that they kept company over there and were married in Warsaw, Russia, eight years ago. They then came to this country, landing in Baltimore, Md., and immediately afterwards came to this city and lived here for about nine or ten months.

William P. McCarthy, assistant city clerk at city hall, testified to a record of a certificate of marriage being issued to Alexander Savenski and the defendant on March 25, 1905.

Alexander Savenski, who it is alleged is the defendant's second husband, said he was married to the defendant on March 25, 1905, at the police station.

Cross examined witness said that Maximova, who it is alleged is the husband, met him and said that the defendant was his wife and that he had never lived with her. Shortly after this the alleged first husband left Lowell and did not reappear here until several weeks ago when he had the woman placed under arrest.

The court after considering the testimony in the case found probable cause of guilt and ordered the defendant to be held for the grand jury under $400 bonds. She received bail.

Europe—Otto was most active of the two boys. He was the most devout and religious minded boy I ever saw. He taught a class in Sunday school, sang in the choir and was affiliated with every church activity he could enter.

"Then one day came the first disappointment for us in the life of Otto. When he was twenty-one he told us one day that he was going to leave town. West, he said, he was going. Where he knew not. He had a little money that he had earned from the printing trade and was able to leave. He went despite my pleas with him to stay and the tears of his mother. She has never been really happy since that day she kissed him good-by.

"And that was in reality the last we had of our son. True we saw him since then several times and received a few letters at odd intervals, but he has never been a son to us since."

The father went on to relate the times when he received a letter or postcard from his son. He mentioned the time he was invited to visit his son at the Lake Park avenue temple in 1894. During the interim he had no notion as to what his son was doing in the "west." It was this period the "Sun Priest" is said to have passed in Utah.

"We were living in Milwaukee when we received the letter to come to see Otto. Of course we went although it required some hard saving of money to make the journey. I had given up my position at Rochester nine years before and was teaching music in Milwaukee. For a while we had lived at Elkhart Lake, Wis.

Astounded by Sun Palace

"We were astonished to find the palatial home where Otto lived. He did not meet us at the train, but we found the place and our son. But even the meeting again after the long separation was a disappointment for us. We seemed too plain for the elegance and richly furnished place there. Everything was too nice and we did not feel at home. And worst of all, Otto seemed so different that we did not enjoy ourselves. He had so little time for his father and mother.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

As an added attraction at the Lakeview dance hall this week, Tom Pool, who scored such a grand success as drummer at Keith's theatre during the winter season, will play xylophone and bell solos during the dancing. Mr. Pool is recognized as the best man in the city on a list of selections that he will play during the week. John Y. Myers, the well known soloist, will also be heard every evening and will sing to the accompaniment of Kittredge's orchestra of eight pieces. The floor is in great condition, and the hall has been beautified with numerous decorations. Sessions are held at the hall every afternoon and evening, and owing to its close proximity to the water it is the coolest spot in the vicinity and every detail for the comfort of those who patronized the resort is attended to in grand style. The fountain at the entrance to the hall has been completely remodeled and all kinds of temperance drinks are served by a competent corps of soda dispensers.

An Editorial from the Detroit Times June 12, 1912

IF THE PRICE OF COFFEE
WOULD DOUBLE AGAIN
ALL THE BETTER!

The price of coffee has doubled in three or four years. And this, despite production has doubled in that time. The reason for the present high price of coffee was sought and it has been found that the market supply has been artificially restricted. The Brazilian government is in the operation and participates in the profits to the extent of an export duty of three cents a pound. And American bankers are financing the scheme.

Diabolical plot?

Outrageous conspiracy?

Perhaps!

But we did not take our pen in hand to condemn anybody concerned except COFFEE DRINKERS—to condemn them and, also, to congratulate them, both upon the present increased price and the probability that it will go higher.

It isn't exactly inspiring to see American capital finding its way to a foreign country to be used there to the end of exploiting American family pocketbooks.

However, this is not the saddest fact involved, to our way of thinking.

It is most regrettable that the consumption of coffee in this country has increased to a point to warrant manipulation of the supply.

We don't like to look upon coffee as becoming a NECESSITY to the American people, and view with alarm the activities of capital suggestions that it IS becoming a necessity.

Coffee isn't good for you.

Too much of it is positively harmful.

If the present price, doubled in four years, would double again, it would be the best thing that ever happened to the excessive coffee drinker.

He wouldn't drink as much of it.

Better yet, maybe he wouldn't drink it at all.

Just possibly you have us put down as being a bit nery in this—coming in and sitting down beside you before the coffee pot and telling you to keep hands off.

Nevertheless, we mean well.

We are talking for your good.

You like coffee, probably, and perhaps you think it is none of our business if you drink it or if you drink all you want of it.

Babies want those pink pills that look like candy and cry if we don't let them have them.

The same pink pills, left around by careless mothers, have killed many babies.

And many grown people know as little as babies about the care of their bodies.

There are intemperate coffee drinkers the same as there are intemperate drinkers of alcoholic beverages.

One cup of coffee isn't going to prove fatal, nor two cups of coffee. Two cups may upset your entire system, make you uneasy, restless and peevish and unfit you for best results for a day, but it will wear off after awhile the same as a whisky drunk wears off.

But bring to us a person who drinks two and three cups of coffee regularly for breakfast, or a person who drinks coffee three times a day, and we will show you a person with a bad-acting heart, a sluggish liver, a disordered stomach and a shattered nervous system. If you don't believe us, ask your doctor.

He will tell you that coffee contains caffeine, which he gives in the smallest kind of doses for a heart stimulant.

He will tell you further that too much caffeine or too much coffee will give you a palpitating heart.

Then if you are satisfied to run the risk of having that kind of a heart, keep right on drinking all the coffee you want, and excuse us for interfering. (Detroit Times, June 12, 1912)

Instant Postum

This new food drink
CONTAINS NO CAFFEINE—
COSTS LESS THAN COFFEE—
REQUIRES NO BOILING—AND
TASTES BETTER THAN MOST COFFEE

Stir a spoonful of Instant Postum in a cup of hot water, add cream and sugar to taste, and you at once have a delicious drink that's wholesome, pure, and good for old and young.

A 100-cup tin of Instant Postum (no boiling) costs 50 cts. at grocers, 1-2 ct. per cup. Smaller tins at 30 cts.

Standard Postum, large pkg. (the kind which must be boiled 15 min.) 25 cts.

Both produce the same result; one by boiling and the other instantly.

Coffee averages about double that cost.

Housewives appreciate Instant Postum because it saves time, work and fuss in the preparation of a meal; and for its intrinsic merit.

Ask your grocer about it. If he doesn't carry a supply, send us your address with a 2-cent stamp and your grocer's name and we will send you a free sample of this newest food drink.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The theatrogoing public of Lowell generally, will be pleased to know that the offering by The Harvard Stock company for the first three days of the week, commencing today, will be one of the most popular present-day plays in which the leading actors and actresses of the country have appeared, "The Rosary." The piece tells the story of a young couple, who have lived very happily together until some unknown influence brings about their separation. Father Kelly, the parish priest, a character loved by everyone, realizes that the young couple fail to understand the real cause of the trouble and he sets about to bring them together. He succeeds and the closing scene finds man and wife happily united. The character of the priest, one of the principal in the cast, is so drawn that the question of secularism is not in any way involved. Critics all over the country have pronounced this play one of the very best of modern day creation, and when interpreted by such artists as Henry Grady, Charles Stevens, Miss Valaire and others, should please immensely. In connection with this offering there will be a new series of photo-plays and illustrated songs that will contribute in making the entire bill one of unusual merit.

For the last three days of the week the offering by The Harvard Stock company will be "St. Elmo," a play that has won favor in many cities during several seasons past. It has many interesting situations and tells a pretty story. As presented by this clever company of entertainers, it should meet with the general approval of all. New photo-plays and songs will be given during the last three days.

Patrons should remember that the temperature at this theatre is kept at comfortable figures at all times. It's the "cool spot" of the city.

For an answer to the question, drop around this afternoon or evening. The Kasino is the coolest place in Lowell. By the way, the management has made elaborate plans for July 1. Beginning Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Kasino orchestra will play continuously until Thursday night at 12 o'clock. Twenty picked men have been secured, and they will be divided into two orchestras, so that when one is tired, the other will take its place.

REP. UNDERWOOD

DOES NOT WANT TO BE VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Representative Underwood put a damper upon the efforts to boom him for the vice presidential nomination last night by declaring that he was in the fight for first place on the democratic ticket to-day. Mr. Underwood admitted that he had been approached on this subject by the Clark managers.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD

IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

In Honor of the Feast of St. Peter and St. Paul—First Friday Services This Week

The feast of St. Peter and St. Paul was observed in all the Catholic churches yesterday, with services appropriate to the occasion. It was also announced at all the masses in the local churches that on next Sunday the annual collection for the negro and Indian missions will be taken up.

Friday of this week is the first Friday of the month and devotions in honor of the day will be held in the churches.

At St. Peter's church yesterday the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul was observed, and as the patronal feast of the church, it was commemorated with services of unusual splendor and impressiveness. Solemn high mass was sung at 11 o'clock. Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, Rev. John P. Burns, deacon, Mr. John J. Starr, a seminarian at Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., sub-deacon, and Jas. Markham, master of ceremonies. Rev. Daniel Kellher, pastor, occupied a seat in the sanctuary. The musical program was of rare excellence, the solos being taken by Miss Gertrude E. Keleher, Miss Vera Moody, and Messrs. James B. Donnelly, John H. McMahon, John E. Roane and Frank J. Kane.

The sermon was an eloquent discourse on the significance of the day, and it was preached by Rev. Fr. Burns. The reverend gentleman recounted the important incidents in the life of St. Peter, his loyalty and his eminent position as the vicar of Christ on earth. He felt the time most opportune to pledge anew the loyalty of the faithful to the see of Peter and he was sure that in return God would shower his choicest blessings on all.

Next Friday, the first Friday of the month, the Holy Hour services will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening with a special musical program. Confessions will be heard on Thursday evening.

Wednesday a high mass of requiem will be sung for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Michael Roman, and the speakers at all the masses at the church yesterday suggested that as many of the parishioners as can conveniently attend should do so.

The children's mass at the Immaculate Conception church, which heretofore was celebrated at 9 o'clock, was yesterday sung at 10 o'clock in the basement of the church, and the latter time will remain until further orders.

The monthly church calendar of the Sacred Heart parish was distributed after the masses, and besides containing parish information one feature was the completion of an article on the Oblate missionaries by Rev. Edmund J. Cornell, O. M. I., pastor of St. Andrew's church, North Billerica. This was a very lengthy manner the work accomplished by the priests of that order, showing the many difficulties and obstacles the clergymen had to contend with, but as the results were gratifying in the end the work proved most pleasing. The story was most instructive and was exceptionally well written.

A meeting of the general committee in charge of the annual parish outing and picnic to be held at the Geronimo grounds on July 29 will be held in the school hall this evening and it is expected that all members and parishioners as well will be present. The sports and executive committees will hold special meetings tonight and the results of the past week will be announced. The report of the soliciting committee, which is one of great satisfaction, will be submitted tonight. The members of the latter committee report most gratifying results. The tickets for the affair will be ready this evening and on tomorrow evening a general rehearsal of all the talent in

TO BE ESTABLISHED ON SOUTH COMMON AGAIN THIS YEAR

The great and glorious Fourth is but a few days away and already there has been considerable activity on the South common where the midway is held annually. The time for making applications for permits to locate on the common opened this morning at 9 o'clock, and Clerk John J. Flaherty of the license commission was very busy all day during the morning and afternoon hours and undoubtedly he will be rushed harder tomorrow and the next day.

If the number of applications made this morning can be taken as a criterion, there will be an increased number of fairs on the midway this year. While there are scores of local people who will have stands on the common there are the regular all-the-year-round fairs who will put in an appearance.

The license fees range from $1 to $15. The $1 fee is for cane and knife rinzing booths, striking machines, etc., $5 for merry-go-rounds and $15 for the tent shows.

MAN ARRESTED

IS WANTED BY THE LAWRENCE POLICE

Charles Pokenalis, who is wanted by the Lawrence police, was arrested in this city about one o'clock yesterday morning by Patrolmen Joseph A. Clark and Lindsey E. Ingalls on Bridge street on a warrant charging him with assault with a knife. When brought to the police station it was found that he had a dangerous looking knife on his person, the blade being about 11 inches long and blood stained. Yesterday an officer came from Lawrence and took the man back to the down river city.

LOWELL CAPTURED BOTH GAMES

Defeated Lynn 4 to 2 and
4 to 3 Saturday—Team
Improving

LYNN, July 1.—Lowell took both games in the double-header with Lynn at Ocean park Saturday afternoon, the first by the score of 4 to 2 and the second by the score of 4 to 3. Both games were very interesting and feature plays were executed by members of both teams.

Wolfgang opposed Walter in the first game, and the former had it on the taller red-top. Wolff pitched a great game, and in the early stages the Lynn boys were unable to do much with his shots. As the game advanced his delivery was found more frequently, but he kept the hits well centered.

Halstein played in the second game, covering first base for eight innings and going over to second when McGamwell batted for Miller in the ninth, Eddie going to his own position.

Kube De Groff did some hitting in the first game, getting four hits out of four times at bat. Clemens was also there, with the timely singles. Loneragan batted well and played his usual star fielding game.

The first run for Lowell came in the fourth session, when De Groff doubled, taking second on McGamwell's single and scoring when Magee got a nice hit. Lowell's next run came when Joe Monahan showed the Lynn men that he is still there, in the fifth inning, and he got a good hit. He took second on a sacrifice and came home on a drive by Clemens.

In the sixth De Groff tripped and counted on a single by McGamwell. The next Lowell run resulted when Loneragan singled and went to second on a sacrifice by Monahan and trotted home on a fine drive by Clemens. Lynn's run came in the third, and after that, though the home players were on the bags, they never had a chance.

SECOND GAME
The second game went seven innings by agreement and all the scoring was done in the first inning. For Lowell, Clemens went to first on an error; Miller walked. De Groff came to bat and after making a quartet of bingles in the first inning he was not there but Halstein was equal to the occasion and scored Clem on a fine single. Magee hit safely and Miller counted and Halstein went to third. Boultes scored Halstein on a sacrifice fly and Magee came in when Loneragan singled. Lynn got three on hits by Orcutt.

AMERICAN ATHLETES
REACH SWEDEN

They Were Given Great
Reception

STOCKHOLM, July 1.—An immense crowd of those identified with the Olympic games, including the principal members of the Swedish committee and the entire track team, greeted the American athletes at the docks near the heart of the Scandinavian metropolis at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. During the half hour in which the steamer was tying up Swedes sang Swedish and American songs and the ship's band played national airs.

Ernie Hjertberg, well known in American athletics, who is now the trainer of the Swedish team, J. S. Edstrom, vice president of the Swedish Olympic committee, and members of the American legation headed the delegation which landed the Finland. Mr. Edstrom made a speech of welcome, in which he said that he expected the Americans to win the Olympic, but he added that the Swedes hoped to teach them something.

Colonel Robert M. Thompson, president of the New York Athletic club, replied that the Americans hoped to win.

The Finland is said to be the largest ship which has ever docked at Stockholm and the Americans are conceded to constitute the star attraction of the Olympic. The Finland will remain there, so that the athletes may have the benefit of isolation and quiet.

Dressed with the flags of the American colleges and athletic clubs and swarming with stalwart athletes in neat uniforms, the steamer commanded great admiration.

Stockholm presents a festive appearance. The streets are decorated with thousands of Swedish flags on poles planted at intervals of feet apart. The flags of other nationalities represented at the Olympiad are interspersed in profusion. The contestants from the various countries, all wearing distinctive uniforms and easily recognized by national devices on their hat bands, are seen everywhere. The open spaces are crowded with athletes practicing every form of sports. Between 2000 and 3000 of them have arrived here.

Americans predominate among the visitors at the hotels. The Russian is the only other contingent with quarters on shipboard, the steamer Birma, which appears an infant in comparison with the Finland. The weather, as in 1908, favors the Americans, who are more accustomed to heat than their British rivals. The thermometer for the past four days has stood at about 90 degrees.

THE MANHATTANS
DEFEATED LINCOLNS

By Score of 7 to 6 in Fine
Game Saturday

In one of the best amateur baseball games ever seen on the South coast, and before a very large crowd, the Manhattans defeated the Lincolns Saturday afternoon by the score of 7 to 6. The boys from Lincoln square got the jump, and scored two runs in the second inning and in the fourth inning with the sacks packed up with Lincoln men, Haggerty drove all home and counted himself on a home run, making the score 6 to 0. With apparent defeat staring them in the face, the Manhattans were determined to win and started in to do some tall hustling. They scored three in the fifth and added one more in the sixth and got three in the seventh, jumping in to the lead and holding it for the remainder of the game. Both teams have to great advantage and many feature plays were pulled off by members of the two teams. Condon fanned a dozen of the Lincoln batters and Hall also pitched a good game.

The fielding features were furnished by Goggin and Durkshire, while the batting of Sharkey, Haggerty, Cashman, and O'Brien was very strong.

Since the South Ends refuse to play for a purse on the 13th of July, a game is likely to be arranged with the Lincolns at Spaulding park on that day. The score:

Manhattans	0	0	0	3	1	3	0	7
Lincolns	0	2	0	4	0	0	0	6

Batteries for Manhattans, Condon and Clark, for Lincolns, Edwards and Hall.

AMATEUR BASEBALL
The Dixwells defeated the C. Y. M. 1, Saturday on the North common, by the score of 17 to 1.

The Unions won from the Y. M. C. A. Independents at West Chelmsford on Saturday by the score of 14 to 13 in an 11-inning game. The batting of La-bourais featured the game. The Shedd Park team won from the Independents of North Billerica Saturday by the score of 9 to 4. Sharkey starred for the winners.

The Highland Juniors won from the Spauldings Saturday by the score of 17 to 15.

The Crimson A. C. defeated the El-gius Saturday, 13 to 0.

The Groves won the rubber game from the El-gius, 14 to 7.

In the Boy Scout league games on Saturday, the Centralvilles won from the Pelham nine by a score of 5 to 3. Alfred Hig, pitching for Centralville, struck out 19 men.

The Cubs won from the Beaccons by a score of 4 to 3.

Pawtucketville won from North Billerica by a score of 6 to 2.

High street won from St. Anne's by a score of 24 to 23.

The game between the Indians and Westfords was postponed.

In the Grammar School league, the Lincolns scored 9 to the Moodys 5.

MORAN-PAYTON
Mr. Christopher Stephen Moran and Miss Anna Verecunda Payton were united in marriage Sunday night at 5 o'clock, at the Immaculate Conception rectory by the Rev. Edward J. Fox, O. M. I. Miss Irene Monette was the bridesmaid, and Mr. John Moran, a brother of the groom, was best man.

The flower girls were Miss Madeline Hughes, a niece of the groom, and Miss May Payton, a sister of the bride. The bride wore a dress of white satin and carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a white embroidered marquisette and carried sweet peas. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to a large number of guests. Among those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Monette of Lawrence, Mass. and Mrs. Monette of Lawrence, Mass. and Mrs. Monette of Lawrence, Mass.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. Anthony Pinard, 22 Marshall street and at noon Mr. and Mrs. Gaudette left for Manchester, N. H., where they will spend their honeymoon. They will return in a week and a reception will be tendered them at 24 Marshall street. They will make their home in North Chelmsford.

GAUDETTE-LACOURSE
At St. John's church, North Chelmsford this morning the marriage of Mr. George Gaudette, aged 17 years and Miss Lucie Lacourse, aged 16 years, was solemnized, the officiating clergyman being the pastor, Rev. Edmund Schofield. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock, the witnesses being Messrs. Alcantar Gaudette and Mollie Lacourse, fathers of the young couple.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. Anthony Pinard, 22 Marshall street and at noon Mr. and Mrs. Gaudette left for Manchester, N. H., where they will spend their honeymoon. They will return in a week and a reception will be tendered them at 24 Marshall street. They will make their home in North Chelmsford.

29TH ANNUAL OUTING AND PICNIC

Of Court Middlesex, F. of
A., Was a Great Success

JOHN B. KENEFICK,
Chief Ranger, Who Was General Manager of Outing.

The 29th annual outing and picnic of Court Middlesex, F. of A., held at Nal, nasott grove Saturday afternoon and evening, was attended by 1000 people, and the affair proved a grand success in every particular. The participants included members and friends from Lowell and the surrounding towns.

While dancing to the music of the Vesper orchestra started at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and continued until 10 in the evening, the real fun started at 3 o'clock, when a ball game between the South Ends of Lowell and the Graniteville A. C. of Graniteville was started. The game went nine innings and was an excellent one. The Lowell boys won out by the score of 6 to 1. With the exception of one inning the contest was exciting and interesting. The third was the bad session and the South Ends by hitting and taking advantage of a few misplays piled up four runs. They got two in the second and the six represented their total for the day. The Graniteville team scored its lone run in the fifth and though the members fought hard to overcome the lead of the city boys they were unable to do so.

Curry of the winners pitched a fine game, allowing but four hits, and he received perfect support from his team mates. Frank "Roundy" Roane played a good game in the field for the South Ends and the battery work for the losers was very commendable. Ryan and Reed acted as umpires and their work gave general satisfaction. The winning team received the purse of $25.

The score by innings:
South Ends... 0 2 4 0 0 0 0 0—6 8 0
Graniteville... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1 4 2

The other attractions were also very good and there were numerous contestants. In the half mile run James Mullin of the C. Y. M. L. won first prize and he received a fine traveling bag that was donated by MacCartney's Apparel Shop; Walter Kivlin won second prize, a silk umbrella, donated by Allan Frazer. Scullen of North Chelmsford captured first prize in the one hundred yards dash and he got a calash pipe, donated by William Potter. Novestrom of Graniteville was second and he was presented a beautiful pearl handled knife, donated by Fish Warden Harry Gonzales. The tug-of-war was eliminated, owing to the fact that one of the teams was short a man and a boat race was substituted. The latter proved one of the most amusing and interesting events on the program. There were four entries, John H. Condon, Thomas Magee, John B. Kenefick and William Rose. Each man had a dory and it was a case of paddle and row like "Kelly" and after a very close contest, John H. Condon finished in first place, and he was the recipient of a cup, donated by Jesse D. Cook.

The winner, Mr. Condon, is a veteran at the boat pulling game and several years ago, "Jack," as he is better known, and his partner, Jack Ryan, won many races. The two Jacks were in demand at all the picnics and they were winners of many prizes. The race Saturday demonstrated that Condon is still there with the goods, for he won the race against men who also boast of a reputation in the sport.

After the sports refreshments were served and while some returned home, many stayed and enjoyed the dancing. The officers in charge, who worked untiringly on the arrangements of the outing, were: General manager, Chief Ranger, John B. Kenefick; assistant general manager, sub-chief ranger, Elias Crahtree; door director, Frank Delgan; assistant floor director, Thomas Magee; chief aids, Thomas Quinn and John W. Downing, and secretary, Jas. H. Hickey.

wharves, or the adjoining water front property would have been seriously endangered.

The fire started and gained considerable headway unnoticed. It is not yet known just how it had its origin. The crews of the two vessels burned had little warning, and tumbled out of their bunks hurriedly with only the clothes they wore. Captain Green of the Sallie P'On, with his mate, jumped overboard and grasped a piece of floating timber from which they were rescued later by the fire boat. It was feared for a long time that they had perished.

Captain Alfred Warner of Boston, of the barkentine Kramlin, barely managed to take his wife and three children to safety and was forced to leave behind all his personal belongings, except what his wife and children could take with them. In his cabin was $1400 in cash, which was lost.

The loss on the Kramlin, about $25,000, and that on the Sallie P'On about $5000.

The lighthouse tender Zizana scurried about the harbor quenching incipient blazes.

The awning in front of the store of E. A. Bernard, barber in Allen street, was this morning slightly damaged by fire. The department was not called out, but Patrolman Lemay who was in the vicinity extinguished the fire.

A FIRE IN PORTLAND
CAUSED $100,000 LOSS

Two Boston Vessels Were Badly Burned and Crews Had Narrow Escapes

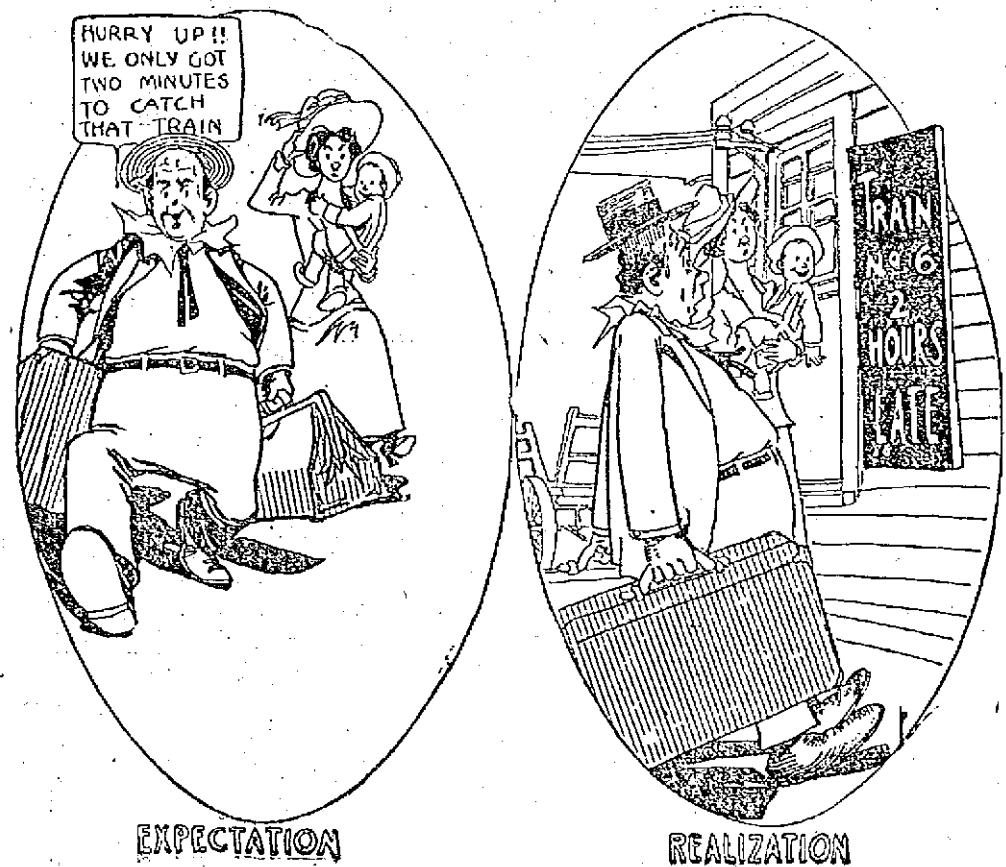

PORTLAND, Me., July 1.—Portland's waterfront, the scene of several big fires, was again seriously threatened by flames early yesterday when damage of more than $100,000 was caused in a wharf blaze. Two Boston vessels, the barkentine Kramlin and the three-masted schooner Sallie P'On, which had just finished discharging lumber from a southern port, were burned so badly they can never go to sea again. The crews of both had narrow escapes.

Beakes' wharf where the fire started, and State street wharf, nearby, both of which are occupied by the Wilson

Lumber company, were seriously damaged, and between $50,000 and $70,000 worth of valuable Southern timber was destroyed. Sturtevant's wharf was also in flames at one time, but strenuous work by the fire department, the fireboat, the revenue cutter Woodbury's crew and several tug boats prevented any considerable spread of the flames.

A brisk wind blew throughout the blaze, but it was in a favorable direction, carrying most of the sparks over the harbor at its widest part. Had the wind blown from any other quarter, either the business district and a tenement section which lie just behind the

The workmen's compensation act, fixing compensation for death or injury, takes effect today. This law, it is expected, will work a great change in the method of settling upon the amount of damages in accident cases in factories and other establishments. The law is not compulsory upon either party, but if an employer intends to accept it he must notify his employees and insure with the Massachusetts Employers' Association established under the act or with some liability insurance company. The employees will also have to notify their employers if they intend to accept the provisions of the act, but neither party is compelled to accept it. In case neither accepts the new law, the employee will have a distinct advantage because three of the most important defenses urged by employers in accident cases have been taken away by the legislature. No longer can an employer plead that the accident was the result of neglect on the part of the employee; that it was the result of the act of a fellow-employee; that the employee had assumed all the risk of the employment. With these defenses lacking the employer is not likely to go into court if he has any other reasonable recourse for the settlement of the case.

The new law fixes damages for certain accidents, the nature of the accident and extent of the damage to be fixed by the industrial accident board, which has the power of a court of law in such matters.

Heretofore, the operative injured in a manufacturing establishment was hurried to a hospital and attended by a doctor or surgeon employed by the company. As a rule he was well treated and if the company was liable for damages steps were taken to settle the case and secure his signature for an acquittal before he left the hospital. Where this was not feasible and a suit for damages was brought, the employee had to fight a large corporation which appealed the case from one court to another and if the verdict was heavy, appealed for a new trial and thus kept up a long fight in the courts. In the end if the operative succeeded in getting a substantial verdict, most of it usually went to pay the lawyers who conducted the case and it often happened when there was a verdict of $10,000 that the plaintiff when all expenses had been paid, did not get one-fifth of the amount. Thus, not only the employee, but the company had to stand a great deal of legal expenses and the lawyers finally were the only parties benefited. Under this new law the case will be different. The injured operative must notify the industrial accident board and his employer and in due time the amount of damage will be assessed and paid without any unnecessary delay.

The scale of amounts fixed for death or serious injury may not be as high as would be received in a successful suit for damages in common law, but there is no trail of legal expenses to lessen the amount. Moreover, it comes readily when the money is needed, and is therefore of more use to the injured party. Employees who accept the provisions of this plan receive in case of death or injury certain amounts fixed by specified rules. Medical and hospital service are provided during the first two weeks after the injury; weekly payments for injuries causing idleness of more than two weeks; in case of death resulting from injury the dependents of the victim will be paid from $4 to $10 per week for 300 weeks. Those partly dependent get lesser amounts and where there are no dependents only the expense of sickness and funeral are paid up to $200. Certain specified amounts are paid for the loss of one hand, two hands, one eye, two legs, the fracture of a leg or an arm and so on. The law promises a revolution in the mode of settling accident cases and to be advantageous to both parties. The accident suits in court have crowded the dockets in the past and have been the terror of the manufacturing establishments. The Massachusetts law is modeled after that in force in England and Australia. It will overcome a great many evils and protect the employee better than ever before.

Under this new law the manufacturing industries will have to reckon the compensation for injured employees as part of the cost of production. This has been done indirectly in the past, although the estimate made for paying claims was mainly applied to the payment of the legal expenses incurred by fighting the cases in court.

IS THE PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY A FAILURE?

Judging from the convention at Chicago and the deadlock of that at Baltimore, it would appear that the presidential primary has produced a regular horde of evils. It is alleged even that the class of delegates chosen has not been up to the standard of former years. This was particularly noticeable in the republican convention where the old time leaders and their high flown oratory were conspicuously absent.

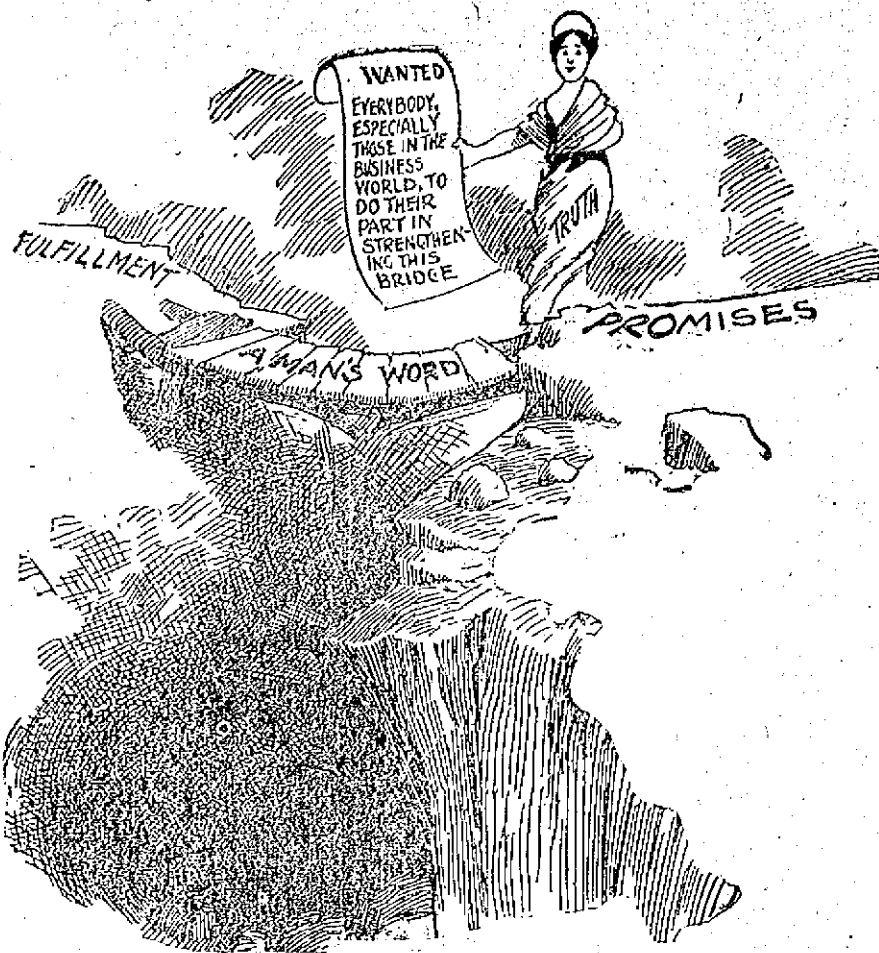

If it appears that the presidential primary is calculated to cause party bolts, deadlocks and political demoralization, something must be done to avert the evil consequences. Still the people will cry for the popular nomination and still the standard of the delegates will become lower and lower, unless the primaries be given the dignity of an election. At present the primary for president is but a straw vote as it were, and is not strictly binding upon anybody. It is merely a means of getting a line upon popular sentiment for the guidance of the delegates, but to cling too tenaciously to the preference so expressed may prove fatal to effective party action. Seldom in the history of the democratic party has there been such a long struggle in a nominating convention as at Baltimore.

Never before were the delegates so divided and so bound to candidates. This is the result of instruction from the voters, but in future there should be a provision that the delegates will not be bound to any candidate for more than a reasonable number of ballots, say ten. If a rule to this effect were binding upon all delegates, then they might be able to do business without wasting so much time in fruitless balloting. The majority of the delegates in accordance with the general instructions from the voters stuck to a few leading candidates, Clark, Wilson and Underwood, yet some of the candidates who got but a few votes are just as good as the leaders mentioned.

Governor Foss came into the contest on the thirteenth ballot and would make as good a president as Clark, if not a whole lot better. Wilson was gaining strength at the close of the balloting Saturday night, but neither he nor Clark was able to secure the two-thirds necessary to nominate. The republican convention nominated by a majority which was fortunate for Taft, for if he had to get the two-thirds he could not have secured the nomination.

Bryan is still an obstacle to spontaneous action in the democratic convention. An able man to be sure, but wonderfully reckless of the amount of trouble he brings upon his party. Yet the convention cannot override him without disaster.

The organization of the Roosevelt progressive party does not show much progress. Roosevelt has been hoping that the democratic convention would butt Bryan to the extent of forcing him into a bolt.

Don't believe the "know it all" fellow who tells you that the new reservoir now being built on the Centralville hill is not designed to increase the fire pressure, for the new reservoir will increase the pressure and had it been in operation at the fire at the Friend Bros' bakery there would not have been any cause for complaint as to pressure.

There's a John John Blair in Chicago. John John has a brother John, and old man Blair, in order to distinguish the second John from the first John, made the second John double John. There is more than one double John in Lowell, and perhaps the reason the papers haven't mentioned it is because they thought everybody knew it.

41 MERRIMACK STREET

AN OLD SWEETHEART OF MINE

As one who cons at evening o'er an album all alone, The muses on the faces of the friends that he has known.

So I turn the leaves of fancy, till in shadowy design I find the smiling features of an old sweetheart of mine.

The lamplight seems to flicker with a glimmer of surprise, As I turn it low to rest me of the daze in my eyes. And fight my pipe in silence, save a sigh that seems to choke Its fate with my tobacco and vanish in the smoke.

'Tis a fragrant retrospection, for the loving thoughts that start Into being are like perfume from the blossoms of the heart, And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine, When my truant fancy wanders with that old sweetheart of mine.

Though I hear beneath my study, like a fluttering of wings, The voices of my children, and the mother while she sings, I feel no twinge of conscience to deny me any theme, When care has cast her anchor in the harbor of a dream.

In fact, to speak in earnest, I believe It adds a charm To spice the goods a trifle with a little dust of harm. For I find an extra flavor in memory's mellow wine, That makes me drink the deeper to that old sweetheart of mine.

A face of lily beauty and a form of airy grace Floats out from my tobacco as a genius from the vase, And I thrill beneath the glances of a pair of azure eyes As glowing as the summer, and as tender as the skies.

I can see the pink sunbonnet and the little checkered dress She wore when I first kissed her, and she answered the caress, With the written declaration that "as surely as the vine Grew 'round the stump" she loved me—that old sweetheart of mine.

And again I feel the pressure of her slender little hand As we used to talk together of the future we had planned, When I should be a poet, with nothing else to do But to write the tender verses that she'd set the music to.

When we should, live together in a cosy little cot, Hid in a nest of roses with a tiny garden-sweet, Where the vines are ever fruitful and the weather ever fine, And the birds were ever singing of that old sweetheart of mine.

When I should be her lover forever and a day, And she my faithful sweetheart till her golden hair was gray; And we should be so happy that, when either's lips were dumpy, that when They should not smile in heaven till the other's kiss had come.

But, ah! my dream is broken by a step upon the stair, And the door is softly opened, and my wife is standing there. Yet with eagerness and rapture my visions I resign To meet the loving presence of that old sweetheart of mine!

A DECLINE

IN THE MOVEMENTS OF LIVE STOCK REPORTED

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Reports of the live-stock movements received at the bureau of statistics, department of commerce and labor, show a decline in the receipts of live stock at the seven principal interior markets in May 1912, when compared with May 1911, but an increase for the 5 months ending with May when compared with the same period of 1911. The receipts during the five months ending with May, 1912, were greater than during the corresponding five months of any year of the past decade. A similar comparison of the receipts at the four principal eastern markets shows a decrease in May, 1912, and an increase during the five months period of 1912. There was a very material falling off in exports in May, 1912, when compared with May, 1911.

The aggregate May receipts of live stock at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Sioux City were 3,255,664 head in 1912, and 3,550,575 head in 1911, a decrease of 8 per cent. The receipts of cattle, hogs, sheep and horses and mules show in each case a decrease, while the receipts of calves at the five markets which report calves separately, show an increase. The aggregate receipts at these markets during the five months' period ending with May were 18,745,483 head in 1912, and 16,375,152 head in 1911, an increase of about 14 per cent.

Cattle and calves: The receipts of cattle at these markets in May, 1912, were 563,333 head, a decrease of 19 per cent, when compared with 622,730 head received in May, 1911. Calves on the other hand show an increase of about 3 per cent, the receipts at the five markets reporting them separately being 96,256 head in May, 1912, and 93,561 head in May, 1911. The receipts of cattle during the five months of the present year were 2,834,455 head, a decrease of 8 per cent, when compared with the same period in 1911. The receipts of calves at the five markets reporting them separately during the five months of 1912 amounted to 82,852 head, an increase of about 2 per cent, over the same five months of 1911, and the largest number received during the corresponding months of any year in the past decade. The May, 1912, receipts of cattle show an increase at St. Paul and Sioux City, and a decrease at each of the above mentioned interior markets, when compared with the receipts in May, 1911.

Hogs: The number of hogs received at the seven principal western markets in May, 1912, 1,913,738 head, was 3 per cent less than in May, 1911, although it is slightly greater than in April of the present year. The receipts during the first five months of the present year, 10,263,345 head, were about 14 per cent, greater than during the corresponding period in 1911. This number was exceeded only once for the corresponding period in the past decade, namely, in 1903, when 10,707,463 head of hogs were received at these markets. The receipts in May, 1912, compared with those in May, 1911, show an increase at Omaha, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Sioux City, and a decrease at Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Sheep: The May, 1912, receipts of sheep at the seven principal markets, 715,613 head, show a decrease of nearly 13 per cent, when compared with May, 1911. The aggregate receipts during the first five months of the present year, however, 4,453,422 head, when compared with the corresponding period in 1911, show an increase of 13 per cent. The receipts of sheep during the first five months of the present year were larger than during the corresponding five months of any of the 10 preceding years. The May receipts of sheep show an increase at Kansas City and St. Paul, and a decrease at each of the other five principal western markets, when compared with the May receipts in 1911.

Cars: The number of loaded live-stock cars received at the seven markets was 53,147 in May, 1912, a decrease of 15 per cent, when compared with May, 1911.

Live Stock at Atlantic Ports: The total May receipts of food live stock at the four leading Atlantic seaports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, were 636,013 head in 1912 and 713,253 head in 1911, a decrease of 3 per cent. The receipts during the five months ending in May were 3,556,370 head in 1912 and 3,311,374 head in 1911, an increase of nearly 10 per cent. The May receipts show a decrease in 1912 as compared with 1911 at New York and Baltimore, and an increase at Boston and Philadelphia.

Packing House Products: The May shipments of packing house products from Chicago were 171,221,125 pounds in 1912 and 184,513,575 pounds in 1911, a decrease of 7 per cent. There was an increase in the shipments of canned and cured meats, pork and steamers, and a decrease in the shipments of fresh and pickled beef, dressed hogs, hides, lard and tallow.

ports of food live stock in May, 1912, as compared with May, 1911, namely, 17,722 and 12,576 head, respectively, a decrease of 73 per cent. The cattle exports in May were 3189 head in 1912, and 20,222 head in 1911; hogs, 2314 head in 1912 and 1807 head in 1911; and sheep, 6234 head in 1912 and 20,537 head in May, 1911. The exports of cattle, hogs and sheep during the 11 months ending in May, 1912, were 255,462 head, an increase of 11 per cent over the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

Exports of meat products: The value of the aggregate exports of domestic meat products was $13,183,538 in May, 1912, and $15,050,797 in May, 1911, a decrease of 12 per cent. The value of these exports during the 11 months of the present fiscal year, however, shows an increase of 7 per cent, namely, $142,988,670, as compared with $132,371,363 during the same period of the preceding year.

KITTEN RESCUED

WAS MAROONED ON "ISLAND" FOR TWO DAYS

Agents Richardson and Gilmore of the Humane society rescued a little kitten Saturday afternoon that had been marooned for two days on a small island in the Concord river, below the Rogers street bridge. It is said that the kitten was taken to the river and thrown in by some one not acquainted with the waters, and as Kitty had been there before she was not to be drowned and swam around, finally getting to the island, where she remained until assistance arrived. Some one telephoned to the Humane society office, and the two agents went to the scene, and after hunting around for some time for a boat finally got one from the Electric Light company and pulled to the island where they saved the kitten.

BOY WAS DROWNED WHILE BATHING

The Victim Was Edouard Landry

A drowning accident occurred late Saturday afternoon, when Edouard Landry, aged 6 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Landry of 2 Varley place, Lakeview avenue, lost his life in the Merrimack river below Beaver brook. The little fellow, with a companion of about the same age, William Vacher, was enjoying a dip at a spot where the water is no more than three feet deep, when he suddenly sank to the bottom. The Vacher boy rushed for assistance and soon returned to the scene with a young man named Albert Morin.

The latter looking into the water saw the body of the Landry boy and he immediately pulled it to shore, but it was too late, as life was extinct. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker Joseph Albert and later to the home of the parents.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

LONG CONTEST

LIKELY THAT NO CHOICE WILL BE MADE TODAY

BALTIMORE, Md., July 1.—When the democratic national convention began its sixth day's session today, there was no prospect of an immediate break of the deadlock in the presidential nomination.

The twenty-seventh ballot was expected to show whether Speaker Clark had won back any of the delegates who had deserted his ranks by his statement denying Mr. Bryan's implied contention that the vote of the New York delegation placed him under obligation to the moneyed interests. Gov. Wilson's chances of winning the nomination were believed to depend on his ability to continue the steady accession of his vote has shown since the Nebraska leader announced his support.

New York will continue to support the speaker during the balloting today, according to Chairman Murphy. "No caucus has been held," said Mr. Murphy, "and our further actions will depend upon developments. I am unable to say what the delegates will decide in the deadlock continues beyond Monday. Mr. Bryan's attack upon the state of New York will have no effect. Our delegates will vote as the majority directs, without reference to Mr. Bryan's position or wishes."

Many leaders thought there was little likelihood of a nomination during the day. They were of the opinion that the controversy between Mr. Clark and Mr. Bryan had stirred up such strife between their respective followers that neither side would yield far enough to make any material difference.

Friends of Mr. Underwood go in the convention more confident than ever that the Alabama congressman will be the ultimate choice. They hope for the accession of a large portion of the supporters of either Clark or Wilson and most of the scattering votes.

Not much time was expected to be occupied in the selection of a vice-president and in the adoption of a platform once the big fight was settled.

The delegates are weary of the long siege, and anxious to get back to their homes.

Speaker Clark's friends were of the opinion that he would not come to Baltimore again. After conferences with him here and in Washington late Saturday night and on Sunday, they knew exactly how he feels in regard to the nomination.

PARTY LEADERS

DO NOT EXPECT A NOMINATION TODAY

BALTIMORE, Md., July 1.—Delegates to the democratic national convention held to a fragile hope this morning that the first three or four ballots taken at the day's session would result in sufficient splits among the instructed delegates to lead to a breaking of a presidential ticket.

The opinion expressed by Mr. Bryan that he could see no reason why the convention should not nominate today was not shared by the party leaders, who frankly admitted that they could not see the way to untangle the knot that bound the convention.

Mr. Bryan, however, said: "I believe we will be here for a week. Certainly I do not look for a nomination for two or three days."

There were no overnight changes in the situation so far as could be learned and there was not the faintest indication that the managers of any of the candidates for the nomination would give ground and consent to a compromise. Underwood movements must fear the coming of the psychological moment, when the delegates, worn and weary with the struggle, might thrust leadership aside and choose a candidate whose name was opportunistically sprung upon the convention. This has often been the history of deadlocked conventions.

As the situation presented itself before the session today, neither Clark

CITY TREASURER MAY RESIGN

Friends Say That He Will Soon Give Up Office

CITY TREASURER STILES

It was reported at city hall this afternoon that City Treasurer Stiles would resign in the very near future and that he would resign now but for the fact that he does not want to get out under fire.

A friend of Mr. Stiles, speaking for him, said: "Mr. Stiles looks upon this hearing as more or less a persecution. He feels that the municipal council knows that the Huntington hall fund was figured as so much cash. He believes the municipal council knows that he acted according to the vote and instruction of the city council, and so far as the Huntington hall money is concerned, he believes that it was as much a part of the balance of cash on hand as were any other of the moneys belonging to the city. He has been put in a wrong light before the people of Lowell and just as soon as it has been shown that he has been honest, upright and cautious in every particular he will resign his position as city treasurer and collector of taxes."

CHILD BADLY BURNED WHILE PLAYING WITH MATCHES

Lydia Sylvia, aged six years, was frightfully burned while playing with matches at her home, 43 Warner street, Wiggsville, shortly before ten o'clock this morning, and although everything possible is being done for her at St. John's hospital, to which place she was taken after the accident, if she recovers the chances are that she will be disfigured for life.

The child secured some matches and went out to a piazza where she lighted several. One of the matches dropped into a box filled with waste paper and before the little one knew what was happening the flames communicated to her dress and in an instant her clothing was all on fire.

Upon seeing her clothing afire she rushed through the house, the wind increasing the flames. A man in the street who saw the girl's clothing ablaze rushed into the house and threw several mats around her and smothered the flames but not before nearly every piece of her clothing had been burned away.

The ambulance was summoned by the neighbor and a man with a carriage volunteered to take the child to the hospital. He was on his way when he met the ambulance and turned the girl over to the care of the doctor.

At the hospital it was found that the little girl had been burned from head to foot.

Clark delegates urged to stick to their candidate.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 1.—The Clark advisory and executive committees and the delegates from the state of Clark states held a meeting early today in a downtown hotel. The delegates were told that Mr. Clark had determined to stick to the fight and were urged to remain until the nomination finally would be attained.

Mr. Bryan this morning said he had nothing to add to his statement of yesterday.
